Today

Industrious Mouse.
Nose Egg-Rolling.
Mr. Grant's New Plan.
Ultra Specialization.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26.

TWO INTERESTING tests of endurance noticed. Some scientist has put a field mouse into a contrivance that registers the movements of animals. That energetic little creature runs, in one night, more than one hundred thousand feet, or twenty miles.

Amazed at the energy bound up in that tiny heart, you say to yourself, "and all for a miserable little mouse." To the creator of the mouse, that creature may be as important as one of us "lords of creation."

IN THE OTHER contest of skill and endurance, a group of children will participate after the Easter egg-rolling festivities at the Coral Gables Biltmore Hotel. The children will see which can roll an egg along the ground one hundred feet, in the shortest time, touching the egg with nothing except the end of the nose.

THAT SEEMS a waste of intellectual effort, but it compares favorably with some educational methods prevailing in our modern schools and universities.

A boy rolling an egg with his nose might possibly learn something, whereas in some of the "educating processes" to which youth is submitted, you can't learn ANYTHING.

IMPORTANT TO the automobile trade and to millions of Americans is the announcement of a new automobile selling force organized by R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors.

The information supplied to the writer yesterday by Mr. Grant disposes of the rumor that less emphasis would be put on distribution of Pontiac and Olds cars.

On the contrary, Mr. Grant has organized a new and powerful sales force to sell Buick, Olds and Pontiac as one unit of General Motors, to take the place of three smaller selling organizations.

Distribution of parts for all three cars will be arranged at 33 places in the United States, and servicing of the three cars will be co-ordinated. The new organization, under Mr. Grant, will have as general salesman W. H. Blees, who has been with General Motors more than seven years, and sales manager for Pontiac for the last two years.

THE IDEA is to put all the selling power of Buick Olds and Pontiac into one organization, bigger in size and greater in energy than three separate organizations that are superseded. Thousands of agents and hundreds of thousands of automobile users are interested in this important automobile news.

A WELL-KNOWN citizen, not satisfied with conditions, says we have gone too far in the line of specialization, and adds:

"This country does not need what is humorously called a government by the people, any longer. We expect a few rich to pay the expenses of the country. We allow a few gangsters to run it, they and the bootleggers enjoying its largest incomes. A few prohibition fanatics govern us. Why waste time electing a President or Congress?"

CONGRESS WITH its spade is busy trying to "dig up" new sources of income. A tax on automobiles, radios, gasoline, theaters, are all advocated.

Every one of them would be a distinctly ANNOYING tax, penalizing a certain class of citizens to avoid a general tax that, like conscription in war, is the only remedy when it becomes necessary.

LATER WHEN the "digging up" process proves a failure, it will be necessary to substitute an ax for the spade and begin chopping government expenses.

The first step in a Congress so generous in disposing of the income of others, would be to reduce the pay of Congressmen by one-half. This would help them to realize conditions, as nothing else could do. And such a reduction in Congressional pay would be along the lines of sound business, which forbids paying for a thing more than twice what it is worth.

THE CITY of Kenosha in Wisconsin shows what things can be done by those not afraid to use an ax. Wisconsin's tax committee finds that Kenosha has a surplus of more than seventy-seven thousand dollars, although its expenditures for charity, caused by unemployment, have increased by $241,000.

Some of our biggest cities will find themselves compelled to do some chopping.

With the best will in the world you cannot take from land owners more money than they take in.

THERE ARE other ways of making ends meet.

For instance, John H. Perry, who owns the Jacksonville Journal and some other newspapers, informs Col. Frank B. Shutts, who owns the Miami Herald and also the biggest law business in Southern Florida, that Jacksonville makes a profit of a million and a half a year on its municipally owned light and power plant. The city, from its own plant, sells light and power to citizens cheaper than any other city in America except Seattle, which also owns its own light and power plant.

Jacksonville citizens have the benefit of low cost for electric current, and a profit of a million and a half used to reduce taxes.

The situation is not pleasing to those that privately own power plants, and public officials. But it is interesting to Jacksonville and Seattle.

GANG CHIEF AND CHILD REPORTED SEEN

4 Youths Tell of Suspect Resembling Fleischer; Clergyman 'Negotiating'

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—A sudden, unexpected tip today swung the feverish search for the Lindbergh baby and his kidnapers into the center of the capital.

As hopes alternately rose and waned from the many clues being followed hither and yon about the country, a man greatly resembling Harry Fleischer, reputed leader of the Detroit Purple Gang—badly wanted for questioning in connection with the case since he dropped from sight some time ago—sought lodging last night on an obscure Washington street.

It was nearly midnight. Four youths, who saw him and another man walk to the door, noted a small car outside. In it sat a woman and a baby. They recalled news pictures of Fleischer and when the men had been turned away for lack of room, called the police.

PICTURE IDENTIFIED

From the rogues' gallery, officers said, they immediately picked out Fleischer's picture. By radio and teletype the authorities sent orders to spot the car or the men and call reserves. Cruising police autos, radio equipped, carried on an incessant watch through the night.

The police were certain the group had found lodging in the city, either in a rooming house or a tourist camp. They warned patrolmen that the men were dangerous.

Police received a report that a man resembling Fleischer spent the night at a tourist camp at Hyattsville, Md., near here, and left early today for Baltimore.

While this new angle developed

McCready Sued by Wife

Harrison R. McCready, of Fox Chapel Manor, who remarried less than 48 hours after he had been divorced by his first wife, was sued for maintenance by Wife No. 2, who was Marguerite Helen Haasley, in court today.

The second Mrs. McCready charges that two months after their elopement to Cumberland, last December 2, he put her out of his luxurious home and has given nothing toward her support since.

She asks that the court seize sufficient of his property and stocks to provide suitable maintenance for her. She is now living with her mother, as she has been unable to obtain employment, she avers.

Man Falls Dead In Butcher Shop

A man believed to be William Moreth, 50, of 343 Beaver road, Emsworth, collapsed and died in a butcher shop at 1819 Brighton road, North Side, today. George Defibaugh, proprietor of the shop, said that Moreth came into the store carrying a basket of groceries and slumped to the floor.

Divorcing Elopement Bridegroom

MRS. CHESTER B. STORY, JR. . . . MARRIED IN AN ELOPEMENT

Mrs. Story (Dorothy M. Brewer), Brookline, Mass., who at Reno has asked for a divorce from Chester Bradstreet Story, Jr., Pittsburgh former basketball and football star at Tufts' College. Her high school graduation in June, 1930, brought the revelation that she had been secretly married for six months. There's one child.

N.Y. GANGSTERS KILL WOMAN

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS.)—Murder and panic was brought to the heart of the Harlem district today when gangsters, in a speeding sedan, raked the sidewalk with bullets from a machine gun. Mrs. Lulu Miller, a Negro, shot in the back by the assassins, died on the way to a hospital.

Frank Burch, 28, coming out of an all night resort, was wounded in the head.

The bullets, however, missed John Dempsey, 30, who stood on the sidewalk and apparently was one of the targets of the executioners.

Crowds on the street were thrown into a frenzy of fear. The murder crew sped through the pandemonium and vanished.

At least 30 bullets were fired by the gunmen.

The latest outbreak of gang violence was reported due to attempts to "get" the remaining members of the Vincent Coll mob.

Hoover Gives Daisies Instead of Lilies

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—The depression has even hit the White House greenhouses.

For years it has been the custom for the President to give each employe at the executive mansion, including the police guards, a potted Easter lily. Today, however, the presentations, instead of lilies, were ordinary field daisies.

SUIT BLAMED ON RICHES

Word received in Pittsburgh of a divorce suit filed in Reno, Nev., against Chester Bradstreet Story, Jr., by Dorothy Margot Story, formerly of Brookline, Mass., was confirmed here today by Story's mother, Mrs. Chester Story, at her home in the Dithridge apartments. She expressed the opinion that her daughter-in-law's wealth caused the parting.

Announcement of the elopement and marriage of Dorothy M. Brewer and Story, a Tufts College football and basketball star, was made when Miss Brewer graduated from high school in June, 1930. They had been married the preceding December.

According to an International News Service dispatch, Mrs. Story charges her husband with cruelty. She asks no alimony. Their son, Chester III, is with his mother, the elder Mrs. Story said. She declared the couple had lived in El Paso, Tex., until last May, when the young wife went to Boston, later notifying her husband she would seek a divorce. Mrs. Story said:

"Margot is a lovely girl. But she is rich and my son is poor. I suppose it was a choice between husband and family. They were very young when they were married. Margot was 17, and Chester 21.

"Our children have to learn from their own experiences. They have a way of living only for today. It may be a pose, but even a pose becomes real after a while."

The elder Mrs. Story is author of a number of books on etiquet and dress. Her husband teaches at Fifth Avenue High School.

Schumann-Heink Stricken in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, March 26.—(AP.)—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, noted opera and concert singer, was confined to her hotel here today with a severe attack of laryngitis which she suffered Thursday night while attending a Goethe commemoration service shortly after her arrival in St. Louis.

Her physician said her illness was not serious, and he expected her to be recovered sufficiently in two or three days to appear at the local theater which had engaged her for a week's daily appearances.

Train 'Holdup' Believed Plot to Kidnap Schenck

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—(AP.)—Special agents of the Santa Fe Railway were investigating today an apparent attempt at kidnaping of one or more passengers from the Santa Fe Chief, fast eastbound train, as it left here at 10:30 o'clock last night.

Two men boarded the train shortly befor' it left Los Angeles and made a thorough search of the train. They forced Coonductor Dan Burke into a compartment and held him prisoner until the train reached the suburb of Highland Park.

No attempt was made to rob or molest the passengers, Santa Fe officials reported. They were at a loss to account for the men's actions other than to theorize they might have been part of a gang, other members of which were to carry out the actual kidnaping.

When the train reached San Bernardino a check of passengers was made but revealed no one missing, although a report that Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer and estranged husband of Norma Talmadge, the actress, was missing from the train caused railway officials to make a hurried check. Schenck was registered at the Agua Caliente Hotel in Lower California, the hotel reported there this morning.

POWERS LETTER CONFESSES KILLINGS

Warden Releases Note of Slayer Written Before He Paid With Life on Gibbet

International News Service.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 26.—Harry F. Powers, Quiet Dell Bluebeard, spoke from beyond the gallows-arm today in a posthumous confession to the mass murders of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and the latter's three young children.

In the presence of newspapermen he had summoned to his office, Warden A. C. Scroggins revealed the self-damning contents of a "mystery" note scrawled by Powers a short time before he walked to the scaffold with protestations of innocence fresh on his lips.

The note was a succinct verification of a previous admission of guilt in the murder for which Powers paid the death penalty—the love-racket slaying of Mrs. Lemke, credulous divorcee, and strangling of the Park Ridge widow and her three children, all lured to Powers' murder garage at Quiet Dell.

STUDIED OWN CASE

Between the lines of the bizarre note could be read the psychopathic introspection of Powers as he studied his strange emotional quirks. He said:

"I know I am not normal. Usually I am kind and affectionate, but at times I have an overpowering urge.

"At these times I have neither fear nor sympathy.

"I am not this way because I want to be."

Powers' last note follows:

"This is to certify that I have given to my medical adviser (Dr. H. J. Haines, who recently announced Powers had made a full confession in a first-person life story) a true and full written account of my life and that I have described all my deeds, whether good or bad, in full, and that they are true as described.

FELT NO REMORSE

"At no time during the commitment, or after the commitment, of any of my deeds have I felt any regret or remorse.

"On the other hand I have had a feeling of well-being.

"I know I am not legally insane, but I know I am not normal. Usually I am kind and affectionate, but at times I have an overpowering urge. At these times I have neither fear nor sympathy.

"I am not this way because I want to be. I must have been born this way."

He concluded the note with the simple statement:

"I have told the truth."

The note was signed, "Harry F. Powers."

In making the note public, Warden Scroggins handed the newspapermen a statement selving all responsibility in connection with the last document penned by Powers. This statement read:

"The appended statement for post-morten release is made public through my agency. I accept no responsibility other than that of transmissal."

50 MILLION TAX ON HOME BREW DRY DEMAND

Liberals Assert Proposal Brings Frank Recognition Of Volstead Law Futility

By WILL'AM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A House controlled by friends of prohibition today prepared to vote on a proposed tax of $50,000,000 a year on the "home brew industry" of the country.

The levy on malt syrup, wort and grape concentrate used in making beer and wine was backed by the Ways and Means Committee, but faced bitter opposition from many sources.

The anti-prohibition leaders ridiculed the proposed taxes as a frank recognition that the Volstead law is flouted, and many drys joined in the opposition on the ground that better ways of raising money can be found.

MODIFY GRAPE TAX

Modification of the 40 per cent grape concentrate tax was to be urged by Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, of the Ways and Means Committee, so it would apply only to concentrate used for making alcoholic wine.

A change in the 35 cents a gallon tax on malt syrup and extract used in bread-making also was to be proposed, while the committee maintained its stand for a 5-cent-a-gallon tax on wort.

A vote also was expected on a proposed tax of 4 cents a gallon on lubricating oil, which is about the only article used by a motorist still untaxed. As a result of the defeat of the sales tax, Crisp urged a modification of this tax to lessen the burden on manufacturing concerns.

While the House continued to work on provisions of the bill, a subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee struggled to fill

HOOVER FAVORS VOTE DRIVE

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—President Hoover today formally indorsed a movement to bring out a record vote at the polls in the coming presidential election.

The chief executive issued a statement this morning, expressing approval of a campaign by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce to increase by 14,000,000 the number of voters as compared with those in the 1928 election.

The chamber hopes for a total vote of 50,000,000.

The President said:

"I do warmly approve of this undertaking. Ours is a representative government and it can function effectively only when the will of the people is clearly expressed at the polls."

Harlan Miller, of Des Moines, Iowa, chairman of the board of the United States Junior Chamber has called twice upon President Hoover in recent days, seeking his approval of the get-out-the-vote campaign.

French Fliers Set New World Record

ORAN, Algeria, March 26.—(AP.)—The French fliers, Lucien Boussoutrot and Emil Rossi, broke the world record for sustained flight over a closed circuit today when they covered 10,600 kilometers and been in the air 76 hours and 45 minutes.

The record formerly was held by Marcel Doret and Joseph Lebrix. Their distance was 10,372 kilometers.

Mary in $13.50 Dress Visits White House

NEW YORK, March 26.—Who would even think of calling at the White House in a $13.50 dress? Well, Mary Pickford, for one. She did it, and as she explains: "It is a darling dress, too."

BELIEVE CRASH VICTIM FOUND

WEIRTON, W. Va., March 26.—Searchers believed today they had found the body of Dr. Carol S. Cole, St. Louis woman physician, missing since last Monday, when the plane in which she was a passenger crashed at Brown's Island.

Dragging the Ohio River last night, grappling hooks became fastened to an object believed to be the plane's motor. When the hooks were released they brought up a matted mass of debris, which, analyzed at the Weirton emergency laboratories, was declared by Dr. F. B. Harrington to indicate the presence of parts of the plane and probably the body.

Cantor Fears Fever, To Miss Bullfight

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—(AP.)—Eddie Cantor has decided not to be one of the fans at Mexico City's next bullfight.

The wise-cracking comedy king had planned to leave here tomorrow on a trip to Mexico City to get some atmosphere for his next picture. Then his doctor advised that he should first take the precaution of inoculation against typhoid fever. Cantor, having no liking for inoculations, called off the trip.

FREE STATE CHIEF FIRM ON OATH

Ireland Hopes for Calm Easter as Republicans Mass to Honor Martyrs

International News Service.

LONDON, March 26.—On the eve of nation-wide demonstrations in Ireland to commemorate the Easter-week revolution of 1916, flat announcement came from President Eamonn De Valera, of the Irish Free State executive council today that there can be "no compromise" on abolition of the oath of allegiance to King George.

Rumors reached London that the new Free State president was prepared to arbitrate the chief issue by which he gained his recent victory at the polls, but he spiked them personally and emphatically in a telephone interview with the London Evening Star from Dublin. De Valera said:

"You can take it as certain that there is no truth whatever in the suggestion of a compromise."

Ireland Hopes for Calm Easter Celebrations

DUBLIN, March 26.—(AP.)—Easter eve, the sixteenth since the revolution which flared on "Bloody Easter Week" in 1916, found the Republican spirit more active in Ireland today than in years, with some trepidation over the possibility of trouble before the morrow passes.

It is the first time in years that Republicans, under the organization of the "Irish Republican Army" have been permitted a free rein for their memorial celebrations in honor of the 1916 revolution and the Republican leaders who died for the cause.

On that fact, however, officials of the government today pinned a confidence that the day would be peaceful. Clashes, they said, were not likely to occur when there was no opposition.

ARMY IN RESERVE

As a precautionary measure, however, the regular Free State army was ordered confined to barracks over the week-end, to prevent any possibility of clashes with the Republican irregular forces.

The "Republican Army," in collaboration with the Cumann Na Mban, Republican women's organization, began selling white muslin Easter lilies, emblems of the cause of the Republic and complete independence of Great Britain, in the streets yesterday.

Maude Gonne McBride, the Irish "Joan of Arc," will lead a demonstration in County Cavan and Mrs. Muriel McSwiney, widow of the Mayor of Cork, who died on a hunger strike, will lead another in County Cork.

Ulster Bans Assemblies, Special Police Detailed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 26.—(Universal.)—The ulster government followed up its ban on Eastertide Republican demonstrations by specifically forbidding Republican assemblies tomorrow in Belfast, Londonderry, Tyrone and Newry.

Special police forces were detailed to stand guard at cemeteries where martyrs of the Irish rebellion are buried, and elaborate precautions will be taken to reinforce police stations at all cities bordering the Irish Free State.

Rain and Possibly Snow Predicted for Easter

Any old clothes will do for the Easter promenade tomorrow.

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman today blasted all hopes of a sunshiny, crisp Easter with this prediction:

"Cloudy and colder tonight and Sunday, probably light rain changing to snow flurries."

The temperature will hover around 35, the forecaster stated, and the wind will add its bit toward making the day chilly and generally disagreeable.

A vast rainy belt extending to the Mississippi precludes likelihood of the weather clearing by tomorrow for the annual show of new bonnets, gowns and slippers.

However, looking at it from a different viewpoint, Brotzman quoth, philosophically:

"It will be an ideal day for a lot of people who couldn't afford to buy new clothes."

STUDENTS MAP COURSE AFTER REBUFF AT KENTUCKY MINES

COLLEGE GIRL'S ARM TWISTED BY GUARD

'Reign of Terror' Charged In Bell County; Liberty Pledged by Law Denied

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 26.—(AP.)—The college students who went over the Cumberland Mountains to see what they could see in the Kentucky mine fields have returned here rebuffed, indignant and undecided whether to force [illegible] "sociological research."

It was a fruitless trip that netted the [illegible] members of the National [illegible] League little more [illegible] on the Kentucky slopes.

Officers [illegible] the students back when they tried to enter Bell County, Kentucky, to investigate conditions among coal miners and the entire group returned to Knoxville without a halt as the Kentuckians warned that Claiborne County on the Tennessee line would permit no stop.

The party did not even pause for food on the return trip and last night conferred with Dr. [illegible] R. Neal, Knoxville attorney, on whether to try to get a Federal Court order to force Bell County to permit them to go on with the contemplated study of mine field conditions. The conference was adjourned early today without a decision.

BRUTALITY CHARGED

After the meeting the students, through Bell Hall of Mobile, Ala., Columbia University economics student and chairman of the steering committee, issued a statement charging that during the ride back to the state line "one of the guards brutally twisted the arm of one of the girls and flashed a revolver when students protested."

Charges of a "reign of terror in Bell County" and that the Constitution of the United States and Kentucky are not recognized, the students contended, have been substantiated by incidents of their trip.

The statement referred also to questioning of the students at Middlesboro, Ky., by County Attorney Walter B. Smith at the courthouse there. Smith, the students said, informed them "I am the law" in Bell County and that he interpreted the constitution there. The students said:

"Such statements, together with the wanton act of the Kentucky officer during the incident, constitute a de facto denial of all constitutional rights."

COLUMBIA GIRL HURT

It was Miss Eleanor Curtis, graduate student at Columbia in economics, who said her arm was twisted by the guard.

Today Dr. Neal, at the request of Forrest Bailey of the American Civil Liberties Union, whose daughter, Miss Margaret Bailey, a Columbia student, is a member of the party, investigated the rights of the students to enter the mine fields with a view to seeking federal court action.

Additional students planned to join the first group here today for "sociological research" in the mine fields where trouble has existed between miners and operators for some time. Bell County officers had announced no Communists nor Communistic activities would be tolerated during the visit.

The students were questioned at the Bell County Courthouse as to names, colleges and whether they were members of the Young Communist League or the Young Pioneers Society. Several refused to answer.

Maxey Pays Tribute To Judge Stadtfeld

Justice George W. Maxey, of the Supreme Court, paid tribute to Superior Court Judge Joseph Stadtfeld last night at the latter's induction as an honorary member into Tau Epsilon Rho, international legal fraternity, last night in the William Penn Hotel. The affair was held under the auspices of the University of Pittsburgh chapter of the fraternity.

Other speakers were Judge Elder W. Marshall, Dean Alexander M. Thompson of Pitt Law School; Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, Attorney David S. Heimlich and B. Feldman, national officer of the fraternity. Attorney Frank R. S. Kaplan was toastmaster.

Pinchot Fights Bill As Forestry Menace

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—Branding it a "raid on the national forests," Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, protested against the Evans bill which would turn a large part of the public domain over to the states. Pinchot said:

"When Secretary Fall made his notorious attempt to give away to private interests the oil reserves set aside for our Navy, he got as far as he did only because of exactly the same kind of secrecy which is provided in this bill."

Shouse Broadcasting Talk on Sales Tax

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic National Executive Committee, will make a radio address at 6 o'clock this evening on the sales tax and the "inferences to be drawn from the proceedings in regard to that measure in the House of Representatives." The address will be sent over a nation-wide hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company.

SCAN NEW LEVIES

The subcommittee worked with Treasury experts in the hope of making recommendations by Monday. Because of the defeat of the manufacturers' tax and anticipated cuts in other excises, the new proposed levies may range from $600,000,000 to $700,000,000.

In defeating a proposed tax on 2.75 per cent beer and approving an excise of 1 cent a gallon on imported crude and fuel oil and gasoline yesterday, the House sustained the Ways and Means Committee for the first time.

While the House continued its work, concern was expressed by leaders over the possible failure of the House to recommend taxes to balance the budget.

President Hoover recognized the situation in an appeal to Congress to end the Treasury deficit. Reconstruction cannot be completed unless government finances are put on a sound basis, he warned.

The United States Chamber of Commerce threw its influence behind the budget-balancing movement. President Silas Strawn warned that European investors in American securities are concerned over the situation.

Davis to Report On Arms Parley

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—Norman Davis, financial expert of the American delegation to the Geneva armaments conference, will discuss the war debt situation with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson when he comes here Monday, it was revealed today.

Although "officially" a delegate to discuss armaments reduction, Davis, it was learned, has been acting in the capacity of a financial expert.

3 MEN GRILLED IN ERIE KILLING

ERIE, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—Leo Leibert, 27, was found shot through the heart on an Erie street today. He died en route to a hospital.

Three men are held for questioning, but have been unable to throw any light on the crime because of intoxication. They are Andrew Lutanzewski, alias Lucas, 28; Joe Marcenial, 18, and Henry Patasewski, 18. Marcenial, who has a police record, has a cut over his eye which he told police he received when he was struck with a bottle. A broken whisky bottle was found near Leibert.

Police said they had learned that Lutanzewski and Leibert had been seen arguing about a half-hour before Lutanzewski halted a motorist and asked that Leibert be taken to a hospital. No gun has been found although police spent two hours searching the vicinity of the Bank of Erie, near which Leibert was found.

Four Seized in Rum Raid in Penn Avenue

Four men were arrested when prohibition agents and Constables raided an alleged speakeasy on the seventh floor of a building at 804 Penn avenue yesterday, the agents reported. Those arrested, agents said, were Nicholas Hickley, Emory DeSanti, L. W. Smith and Paul Maffatti.

Liquor law violations also were reported discovered in six other raids.

CAPITAL KIDNAP NOTES TRACED

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—Several highly tangible clues today promised an early solution of the extortion plots against Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Sir Wilmott Lewis. Police said they expected an arrest momentarily.

The typewriter on which the letters were written has been found in a downtown office building, it was stated, and police have learned the identity of a man who wrote several notes on it.

Meanwhile a heavy police guard was around the home of Lewis, who is Washington correspondent for the London Times, to guard against the threat in the extortion letters to kidnap Lewis' young son.

Mrs. Longworth has left Washington for New York, taking little Paulina with her.

Kidnapers Release Man Unable to Pay

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP.)—Leslie Abrams, 37, furniture dealer, told police last night he had been kidnaped and held captive several hours by three men who threatened him with death.

His abductors demanded several thousand dollars, Abrams said, but released him upon being convinced that he could not pay. A similar attempt to extort money from him was made several years ago, he said.

Reserve Officers Assigned to Duty

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—Maj. Pedro A. Hernandez, of the infantry, who has been on duty at Pittsburgh with the 99th Division of the organized reserves, was ordered by the War Department yesterday to duty with the 11th Infantry at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Capt. John C. Mansfield, Air Corps reserve officer of Pittsburgh, was ordered to report to the Air Corps procurement planning representative at Buffalo May 15 for two weeks' duty.

HUNT FOR LINDY BABY TURNS TO CAPITAL

a minister in Norfolk, Va., who had been approached in the case, reiterated that he expected negotiations for the return of the baby would be completed within a few days. The authorities at Hopewell, N. J., were equally insistent that the information which led to these Norfolk hopes was of no "specific significance." Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, said Col. Lindbergh himself had come to this conclusion.

The Norfolk minister, the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, and the two men who with him are acting as intermediaries for the return of the baby would say no more, but remained unshaken in believing authentic the approaches made to them by alleged go-betweens for the kidnapers.

INTENSIVE SEARCH

Fleischer and Abe Wagner, both said by the New Jersey police to be "known kidnapers," have been sought intensively for some time, ostensibly to get an account of their activities. Wagner was said to have been seen in central New Jersey shortly before the baby was taken, but both men have dropped from sight completely since. Countless tips continue in New York, on Long Island and elsewhere, but none so far have materialized.

NORFOLK POLICE AID

NORFOLK, Va., March 26.—(AP.)—Three negotiators and a police force instructed not to interfere today stood ready to do what they could to bring about the prompt and safe return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

The position of the Norfolk police was stated last night by Chief S. W. Ironmonger, who said "the first aim of the police should be the recovery of stolen property, and this is the attitude the Norfolk police have adopted in the Lindbergh case." He added that two members of his department had been assigned to the case but were not instructed to make any arrests.

Detective Leon Nowitsky, one of those having the assignment, said he was investigating a number of letters from persons claiming to have knowledge of the whereabouts of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. He joined the intervenors in expressing regret at publicity given to negotiations alleged to be in progress and promised "the next development will be so airtight that there'll be no chance for a leak." He also expressed confidence that the child would be returned "at an early date, possibly today."

CLERIC CONFIDENT

Similar confidence was expressed by the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, the only one of the negotiators who has made any statement other than a formal one declining to discuss their part in the case. He reiterated expressions of confidence in the successful outcome of their efforts and said he expected negotiations to be completed within the next few days.

Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and John Hughes Curtis, boat builder, the other two negotiators, declined to add to their statement that what occurred at their conference earlier in the week with Col. Lindbergh was a matter of the "strictest confidence."

The Virginian Pilot said that the three men had made a contact with a representative of the kidnapers since their return from Hopewell, N. J., and that the meeting occurred early Thursday morning. Asked specifically about this, Mr. Curtis told the Associated Press:

"I am not in a position to answer that."

The optimistic expressions here were in sharp contrast with New Jersey police reports that Col. Lindbergh himself placed "no specific significance" on the Norfolk investigation.

'Social Principles,' Baha'i Meet Topic

"The Program of Baha'i Social Principles" will be discussed tomorrow night by Harlan Ober at the Pittsburgh Baha'i Assembly in Utility Hall, Sixth avenue.

'CONFIDENCE' VICTIM

MISS JULIA KONESKI . . . . . A KINDLY WOMAN HELPED HER

Miss Koneski, 17, Russelton, who from now on won't take people at their face values. A woman in a five-and-ten helped her, left with the contents of her purse. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

GIRL'S HOLIDAY FUNDS STOLEN

A disappointed girl was back at work today, her Easter vacation plans nipped at their start by a smooth-tongued confidence woman.

Julia Koneski, 17, left the home of her employer, Mrs. Louis Mullen, 6654 Ridgeville street, yesterday with $12, and plans for a happy vacation at her home in Russelton.

Stopping in an East Liberty 5-and-10-cent store to shop, she made the acquaintance of a young woman who introduced herself and offered to help carry the bundles. The woman later left Miss Koneski on the pretext of making a telephone call, promising to meet her in the railroad station. When Julia stopped at the ticket window in the station her purse contained only 17 cents. The woman did not meet her.

Kreuger Firm Found Unsound by Probers

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 26.—(INS.)—The position of the Kreuger and Toll Company was "untenable" at the time of its crash, following the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, its founder, according to a provisional survey by the government investigating committee. A definite statement of assets and liabilities cannot be made public until later, the committee said.

When Kreuger died the assets of his company, at their current value, were not sufficient to meet total obligations in case of bankruptcy, the statement said.

Daughter of Former Senator Files Suit

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Clark De Brabant, daughter of the late William A. Clark, former United States Senator and mine operator, has filed suit for $250,000 against the New York Central Railroad and the Pullman Company.

She alleges in the suit that she was injured when thrown from an upper berth of a Montreal-to-New York train on September 27, 1927. Her counsel filed a motion to examine before trial George I. Washington, a porter.

Not Worth $2,000, Wife Gets Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Frank Lee, Chinatown photographer, told his wife she wasn't worth the $2,000 he paid for her, so she told a judge and the judge gave her a divorce.

BANK BILL FOES DENOUNCED

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(INS.)—The outcry of the nation's bankers against the Glass bill, designed to restrict banks from indulging in stock speculation, was described today as a "bag of wind" by Senator Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio. Bulkley said:

"I am very much impressed by the utter futility of the criticism of the leading bankers who have testified in opposition to the bill. The criticism is just a bag of wind. They are afraid we will restrict them in speculation."

The bankers, however, are adamant in their contention the bill is highly deflationary and would nullify the benefits of the National Credit Corporation and Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Senator Glass, sponsor of the bill and war-time Secretary of the Treasury, today charged the American Bankers' Association with organizing a "concerted" movement to "kill" the bill. He added:

"They are making concerted and organized efforts to pick flaws here and there. If we struck out the anti-speculative provision, there would be no further opposition."

Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, commenting on the opposition of the bankers, said:

"My general opinion is that it must be a better bill than I thought it was."

Finance Body Aids Banking Situation

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—Creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and enactment of the Glass-Steagall law have resulted in a "definite improvement" in banking conditions, the Federal Reserve Board announced in its monthly bulletin today.

The improvement is indicated by a "pronounced decline in the number of bank failures, a strengthening of the bond market, and by a return flow of currency from the public to the banks," the board stated.

SUBWAY, WHARF PROJECTS TO BE URGED

Herron Seeking Council Action on Major Traffic Plans; Would Employ Many

Two new plans for relief of downtown congestion, a subway system and a waterfront improvement along the Allegheny River for parking space, will be introduced in City Council Monday by President John S. Herron, he announced last night.

Immediate construction of the subway to cost $5,500,000, of which 40 per cent would be used for labor, and a concrete wharf along the river from Stanwix to Ninth streets, to cost $600,000, will be urged upon Council.

A bond issue of $6,000,000 for the subway was ratified by the voters in 1919.

The present plan is the result of a seven-year survey by a group of business leaders headed by Edward Snodgrass, Jr. It calls for immediate construction of a double-track underground railway loop embracing the Triangle along Grant street, Liberty avenue and Ferry street, with surface approaches on Water street.

Backers of the new plan believe the bonds provided in 1919 could be sold by the city to finance both the subway and wharf projects. About $300,000 of the $6,000,000 voted has been spent on numerous surveys. The remaining $5,700,000 could easily cover the cost of the subway, it is believed.

Snodgrass, who headed the recent survey, is a member of the firm of Kerr & Snodgrass and vice president of the Chamber of Commerce highways and bridges committee, and a member of the Better Traffic Committee.

It is estimated the project could afford two years' work for 1,000 men at $4 daily.

CAPONE 'DEAL' ROW REVIVED

CHICAGO, March 26.—(INS.)—The abortive "deal" by which Al Capone had hoped to win a moderate sentence for income tax evasion leaped back into the limelight today as United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson prepared to depart for Washington to testify before a Senate committee.

Johnson last night received a telegraphic summons to appear before a sub-committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee which is considering the nomination of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to the Appellate bench.

The District Attorney's testimony, it was believed, is sought by the Senate committee in connection with a letter written to Senator Borah, chairman, by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission.

This letter, voicing grave charges of underworld attempts to influence the federal judiciary and other officials, today had resulted in a $250,000 slander suit against Loesch and the announcement that the veteran crime commission head will be summoned before a federal grand jury to elucidate his accusations.

Prison Jobs Asked For Pennsylvanians

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The prospect that many civil service positions at the federal penitentiary now nearing completion at Lewisburg, Pa., would be filled by Pennsylvanians developed yesterday when it became known that Sanford Bates, director of prisons, had recommended that examinations be held to allow Pennsylvanians to qualify.

Bates wrote President Campbell, of the Civil Service Commission, urging that examinations be held in Pennsylvania to establish lists from which men can be chosen for positions at the penitentiary.

Man Freed as Story Told by Woman Fails

Michael McHugh, 30, of 803 Taylor stareet, was discharged from North Side Police Court today when Mrs. Olive Ferguson, 25, who gave her address as 1535 Irwin avenue, did not appear to press her charge that he had molested her near West Park early today.

McHugh denied the accusation and police said investigation showed the address given by Mrs. Ferguson to be erroneous.

Aged Blind Man, Stricken At Church Service, Dies

Joseph Hochendoner, 81, of 443 Spencer avenue, Carrick, who, until stricken blind a year ago, had furnished the fresh green vegetables to housewives of Knoxville and the Hill Top districts for 35 years, was fatally stricken on his second visit to church Good Friday.

Accompanied by a son and daughter, the aged man had gone to the evening service in St. Wendelin's Catholic Church after having attended devotions in the morning.

During the years that he tilled a seven-acre plot on Maytide street, he had regularly attended the church where he was stricken. Assisted home, he died a few minutes later.

A fall in his home, four weeks ago, is believed to have hastened his death.

Born in Clarion County, Mr. Hochendoner came to Pittsburgh 62 years ago, and for 25 years was a glass worker, retiring to become a gardener.

He leaves six children, Mrs. Anna Staab, of Pittsburgh; Brother Louis, C. P., of Cincinnati; Joseph, Charles, Peter and Albert, of Pittsburgh, and two brothers, George, of Pittsburgh, and the Rev. Father Louis, C. P., of Buenos Aires.

RELIEF GROUP AIDING POOR BOARD TO GET $260,000 LOAN

SOURCE SOUGHT FOR COUNTY BORROWING

Officials Have Authority Miller Declares; City Food Distribution Opens Monday

Action by the Poor Board to provide $260,000 for direct relief in Allegheny County appeared certain today with an announcement that leaders of the Allegheny County Emergency Association have promised to help find a source from which the board may borrow.

John F. Casey, Sr., who heads a special committee of the association, was to confer with the poor board again today.

MILLER FAVORS LOAN

The board has ample borrowing power, according to Director J. Clyde Miller, and the best method, in his opinion, is to obtain a loan. He said:

"The board wants to do something in this emergency. We have the legal power to borrow, but we must find someone that will lend us funds."

Distribution of food orders from the $260,000 city relief fund will be started Monday from the established welfare agencies. Sites for five relief centers in sections of the city have been selected and requisitions for groceries will be issued there on receipt of an order from a welfare organization.

HARRIS DRIVE OPENING

The advance guard of the family-help-family campaign of Senator Frank J. Harris will swing into action on Tuesday. This group will seek large subscriptions.

Organization of the main body of the campaign army is going on rapidly. W. B. Rodgers will command 200 men who will canvass 625 industries in outlying districts.

Thomas Fitzgerald will command 200 men who will seek subscriptions in the business districts and shopping areas of outlying communities. The downtown district will be canvassed by 250 workers under D. M. Craig.

MOTHER, GIRL, BOY DIE BY GAS

ERIE, Pa., March 26.—A father awoke today to find his wife and two children dead from gas in a bedroom which the mother apparently had sealed to enable her to die with her son and daughter.

The dead are Mrs. Minnie C. Thomas, 32; Pauline, 12, and Henry M., Jr., 6.

The father, Henry M. Thomas, Sr., told police the family had attended a movie last night and returned home shortly before midnight. His wife had been ill and highly nervous, he said, and left their room early today, but he thought nothing of it.

When he awoke this morning he was led by the odor of gas to his daughter's room where he found the three lying on a bed, dead, door and window closed with cracks stuffed with cloth, and a stove gas jet open.

The mother had carried her son into the daughter's room before removing the cap from the jet, police believe.

Crazed Man Slain By Posse in Siege

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26.—(AP.)—Barricaded in the basement of his battery repair shop at Lake Elmo, Ernst Kern, 38, was shot and killed late yesterday after exchanging shots with authorities for two hours. He was demented.

The killing climaxed a night during which Kern had fired shots at several nearby buildings. When Sheriff Thomas Maher and three deputies went to Lake Elmo Kern locked his door and started shooting. The sheriff telephoned to St. Paul for help and four police squad cars were sent out.

Injured Boy Coaster Dies in Hospital

Injuries suffered March 10 when his sled struck a pole in McCoy road, Stowe Township, caused the death last night in Ohio Valley Hospital of Michael Sinko, 17, of 81 Orchard avenue, McKees Rocks, the Coroner's office reported.

PHILA. RESCUES BUTLER PLAQUE

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—The bronze memorial tablet honoring Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler has found a haven here.

Removed from the Navy Building in Washington, the plaque was sent to the marine base at Quantico, Va., but members of the Butler Memorial Commission of this city, which raised $1,000 for the tablet, deemed the training station unsuitable for it and arranged for its transfer here.

The tablet bears the inscription:

"Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, United States Marine Corps, Director of Public Safety, Philadelphia, January 7, 1924–December 23, 1925. He enforced the law impartially. He defended it courageously. He proved incorruptible."

There will be a parade of Marines and veterans when the tablet is brought to the headquarters of Butler's campaign for election to the United States Senate.

Crying Ohio Town Stones Drys In Tear Gas Raid

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 26.—Half the population of Dillonvale burst into tears last night after arrival of a squad of dry agents and so great was their grief they sent the raiders scurrying for the protection of the county seat amid a shower of bricks.

Led by John Cole, former state dry agent, raiders descended upon an alleged speakeasy in the town and threw tear bombs through an open window. One of the bombs fell in the street. It exploded and natives, thinking a fire had broken out, called the fire department. The alarm brought most of the citizens out and they all started crying.

The effects of the gas were just wearing off when Cole led Joe Lenna, alleged dry violator, out of his place. Then the bricks started to fly.

Cole, his crew and the prisoner arrived here, their automobile badly battered.

RESPITE DENIED DYING SLAYER

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—Quincy Wallandz, condemned to death for killing his wife, must go to the electric chair next Monday despite the fact that he is virtually dying of tuberculosis and heart trouble.

Wallandz, 24, a Cuban, was sentenced to die February 29, but Judge Harry S. McDevitt, who sentenced him, obtained a respite for a month because the Judge felt the prisoner was near death.

Although perceptibly weaker, Wallandz clung to life and Judge McDevitt asked the Governor to grant another respite. Gov. Pinchot yesterday wired Judge McDevitt:

"Members of Board of Pardons do not recommend any further clemency, and I, therefore, do not feel warranted in granting another reprieve."

Wallandz will be taken to the penitentiary at Rockview on a stretcher. He shot his wife last July in a quarrel.

Yogi Mystic Dies From Effects of Glass, Poison

RANGOON, Burma, March 26.—(AP.)—Narasingha Swami, an Indian mystic who thought he could swallow poison and other noxious substances with impunity, died yesterday, a martyr to his own faith.

A Hathayogi, he believed that by virtue of exercises based on auto-suggestion and breach control he could swallow broken glass, deadly poison and nails without ill effect. He had given demonstrations at Calcutta and Madras and appeared here before a group of scientists and physicians.

He swallowed nearly a quart of the deadliest corrosive poisons and then ate a handful of broken glass. Two hours later he said he felt ill. In another hour he was dead.

PLEAD FOR LIFE OF PAULETTA

Decrying the apprehension of Frank Pauletta, Coverdale miner, on an 18-year-old West Virginia murder charge as an act "as shameful and unlawful" as the Lindbergh kidnaping, members of Local Union No. 5085, United Mine Workers of America, today were forwarding petitions to the governors of Pennsylvania and West Virginia asking clemency for their fellow worker.

Pauletta, now under sentence to die April 22, was remanded to Virginia State Penitentiary after having been spirited from his home at Coverdale by police. Left almost destitute, his wife and four children are being cared for by neighbors.

At the regular union meeting in Coverdale last night an assessment of 25 cents per member was voted to provide funds to assist the doomed man to obtain legal aid in carrying his appeal for clemency to Gov. W. G. Conley, of West Virginia. A copy of the resolution was sent to Gov. Conley and another appeal was drafted to Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, asking him to intercede for Pauletta.

The condemned man's wife and four children were present at the meeting. There are two boys and two girls—Frank, 2; John, 11; Helen, 15, and Catherine, 18.

ELSIE FERGUSON TO WED AGAIN

CANNES, France, March 26.—(Universal.)—Romance has come again to Elsie Ferguson, New York stage, screen and radio star, according to friends in Cannes, near which Miss Ferguson maintains a villa.

It will be Miss Ferguson's fourth marriage if she is wed to Victor Egan, former British army officer, in whose company she is constantly seen. Friends predict formal announcement of their engagement soon.

Miss Ferguson, whose latest entertainment venture was in a New York radio play, is 45. She made her first appearance as a stage principal in "The Belle of New York," and later appeared in several Hollywood productions.

Man Kills Witness In Justice's Court

TAOS, N. M., March 26.—(AP.)—Eloy Fresquez, displeased with the testimony of Macomio Sanchez, during a justice of the peace hearing at Penasco, shot him to death as he sat in the witness chair. He then critically wounded Bernabe Duran.

LELAND, AUTO PIONEER, DIES

DETROIT, March 26.—(INS.)—Henry Martyn Leland, 89, pioneer automobile and airplane manufacturer, died in Grace Hospital here early today after a month's illness.

Sinking rapidly in the last few hours, Leland died with his son and daughter at his bedside. He was taken seriously ill February 28.

Death of the pioneer in the automotive world closed his outstanding civic and business career of more than half a century in Detroit. He ended his association with the auto industry 10 years ago when the Lincoln Automobile Company, which he founded, was sold.

Thieves Empty Coop On Second Visit

Police were seeking thieves who entered the chicken coop of Joseph Fetan, Homeville, for the second time this week, wrung the heads from all the chickens that remained from the previous raid and carried them away.

In addition to a number of chickens, the thieves took 15 pigeons and a bicycle early this week, police said.

Autoists Lose Car, $10 to Highwaymen

ERIE, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—When James M. Lawson and Elmer Steinfurth, of Erie, saw a flashlight signal by the side of the road near Cranesville, Pa., they thought a highway patrolman was stopping them.

A lone highwayman showed them a pistol, took $10 and their car and escaped, they reported to police.

SUSPECT HELD IN DOPE THEFT

The robbery of the office of Dr. John Cain, 808 Amity street, Homestead, Thursday night, was believed cleared today with the arrest of Paul Harrison, alias William Burns, 25, who gave police a South Highland avenue address and another in Connellsville.

Harrison was arrested last night in the Morrowfield Pharmacy, 580 Forward avenue, after he was alleged to have presented a prescription for morphine to Emanuel Shabes, the druggist. Shabes became suspicious and called police.

A small quantity of morphine, 11 hypodermic needles and a pad of Dr. Cain's prescription blanks were found on the prisoner, police said.

T. M. Arnold, Banker, Dies in Clarion Home

CLARION, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—Thomas M. Arnold, 69, banker and business man, died at his home yesterday. A brother of Postmaster H. H. Arnold, he was the first president of the Citizens Trust Company, of Clarion, and was affiliated with a number of other financial institutions throughout this section of the state.

Gatti-Casazza Offers Free Services to Save Opera

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Universal.)—Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, today offered to serve without pay, if necessary, to save the company he managed for 24 years.

At the same time such stars as Giovanni Martinelli, Lucrezia Bori, Grace Moore, Edward Johnson and others offered to accept salary reductions if the Metropolitan financial plight necessitated it.

Gatti-Casazza said:

"Since the personnel of the Metropolitan is composed of Americans and foreigners, I affirm that the former are obliged, out of patriotism and duty, to sacrifice themselves for the good of a great American institution where all or almost all of them began and continued their artistic careers; and the foreign-born artists are obliged, out of gratitude toward the institution where they found, and find, a long and faithful hospitality and generous rewards for their services.

"For myself, I do not believe that I can do enough to liquidate my debt of gratitude to the Metropolitan. I offer to serve it in the coming season with necessary reductions of salary which circumstances require, and even without salary if this be necessary."

CHICAGO, March 26.—(Universal.)—The Chicago Civic Opera will not merge with any other, Herbert Witherspoon, director of the organization, said here yesterday, denying published reports of an impending merger with the Metropolitan and Philadelphia Operas.

RESURRECTION JOY BEGINS IN ROME

Cardinal Lights Easter Fire and Huge Candle as Bells Peal End of Lent

ROME, Italy, March 26.—(AP.)—Lent was over officially at noon today and church bells and organs, silent since Holy Thursday morning, apprized the capital city of the Roman Catholic world that the time had come to rejoice in Christ's resurrection.

Special rituals commemorated the day. In St. Peter's the Pope's paschal candle, eight feet high and three inches in diameter, was blessed by Cardinal Pacelli. The cardinal lighted the Easter fire by striking a spark from a flint. The "new fire," as it is called, was suggestive of Christ's resurrection.

CARDINAL'S BENEDICTION

At the conclusion of the mass the cardinal imparted a benediction with relics said to have been connected with Christ's passion and death.

In every city in Italy priests went from house to house to bless them. Rooms and offices were sprinkled with holy water. According to an old custom the master of the house placed a silver offering in the holy water canister carried by an acolyte.

In some homes, also according to an old custom, the families had placed their food for tonight's dinner on the table, so that the priest could bless the first meal they would eat following Lent.

Many young men, including hundreds of foreigners who have been studying in the Rome seminaries, were ordained priests this morning.

"SACRED CART" EXPLOSION

In Florence the six-centuries-old ceremony of the "explosion of the sacred cart" was held again.

While thousands, including a large portion of the American colony, thronged the square before the Cathedral, four white oxen with gilded horns and hoofs drew into the square a cart decorated with flags and flowers and heavily loaded with fireworks.

From the cart a wire was run through the federal doorway to the high altar. At that point an artificial pigeon carrying a pyrotechnic rocket was slid on the wire.

A priest lighted the rocket before a huge congregation. The pigeon roared out over the heads of the crowd to the cart, and set off the fireworks. The crowd in the square cheered wildly, for this was a good sign, taken as forecasting excellent harvests.

Rain over the Allegheny Basin today will cause a rise in the river by Sunday morning.

JAPS THREATEN TO QUIT LEAGUE

Will Resign If Commission Interferes in Far East, War Minister Declares.

International News Service.

TOKIO, March 26.—Gen. Sadao Araki, Japanese minister of war, declared today that Japan would resign from the League of Nations and deny its authority in Manchuria if the League commission investigating the Sino-Japanese dispute continued to evince an ignorance of Far Eastern affairs and made any efforts to interfere in the Far East.

The war minister did recommend that Japan wait until the commission's report is drafted, however, although he said his country was determined to carry out its own policy in Manchuria despite outside intervention.

FINAL NEED FOR FORCE

Araki said that the present Manchurian program was to be the final need for force in that state, and that the disputes concerning it would be settled this time for all time.

The movement for secession from the league is growing steadily in Tokio, some circles holding it to be only a matter of time.

Sentiment favoring Japanese resignation from the league reached its height with reception of reports here from Geneva that the League Assembly planned to apply Section 4 of Article XV of the league covenant with regard to the situation in Manchuria.

This section provides that in the event of failure of the League Council to settle an issue submitted to it for jurisdiction, the council either unanimously or by majority vote "shall make and publish a report containing a statement of the facts of the dispute and the recommendations deemed just and proper in regard thereto."

Such application, according to the Japanese view, would be sufficient to bring about Japan's withdrawal from the league.

PARLEY DEADLOCKED

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(INS.)—The question of withdrawal of Japanese troops continued to hold up Sino-Japanese peace negotiations today, despite the fact that the Japanese made important concessions from demands which yesterday nearly broke down the present parleys.

Both the general conference and the sub-committee adjourned until Monday, when each will meet again. The sub-committee was formed yesterday to settle the difficult withdrawal problem, which at present is the main obstacle to a truce.

Manchurian 'Open Door' To Ban All But Japan

By EDWARD S. HUNTER

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 26.—The "open door" in Manchuria, a policy guaranteeing equal commercial opportunity to all nations, will be closed to all but Japan.

This is the deduction drawn from an interview granted by Foreign Minister Shieh Chien-Shih, of Manchoukou, the independent Manchurian state established by the Japanese conquerors with Henry Pu-Yi, former emperor of China, as its puppet ruler.

The foreign minister said:

"You will agree that up to now the foreign nations have been deciding the meaning of the open door policy. With the creation of a separate Manchurian country it becomes our right to give our own definition and interpretation of this policy."

Although he did not mention Japan, Shieh left no doubt that Tokio holds a special position in Manchuria, guaranteed by her troops.

Hoovers Aid Art Show in Capital

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Universal.)—More than 500 sculptures and mural paintings, all by American artists, were on display at the National Gallery here today in a special Washington bi-centennial exhibition arranged by the National Sculpture Society.

President and Mrs. Hoover have accepted invitations to the reception for the participating artists, and Mrs. Hoover was to be hostess at a White House tea.

Former Miner Hangs Himself in Barn

Pittsburgh Priest Lauds Coughlin Life Story

The Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church and leader of Pittsburgh's jobless army, today lauded the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for obtaining and publishing the life story of the Rev. Father Coughlin, of Detroit, noted radio broadcaster. Father Cox said:

"Almost everyone in Pittsburgh has heard of Father Coughlin and in Western Pennsylvania his admirers are anxious to learn more about him. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, by obtaining and printing the life story of this nationally-known priest, will bring to the followers of Father Coughlin here just what they have long been wanting."

The life story of Father Coughlin begins in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

RADIO PRIEST'S LIFE STORY TO BEGIN

Fascinating Biography of The Rev. Father Coughlin To Appear Tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow the life story of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin will appear in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph and there is every reason to believe that the fascinating biography of America's famous radio priest will attract wide attention. It is to run in four consecutive installments.

Father Coughlin is the pastor of a tiny village parish at Royal Oak, Michigan, yet this parish has a nation-wide congregation.

Although this parish boasted but 26 families when he came to the "Shrine of the Little Flower Church" in 1926, Father Coughlin now preaches his sermons to hundreds of thousands of parishioners scattered throughout the United States. Father Coughlin's broadcast sermons were at first regarded by many as too radical, but when an attempt was made to temper his sermons, his radio appeal brought letters of commendation from 350,000 supporters.

UNVEIL TABLET TO MEMORY OF DEPARTED

B'Nai Israel Synagogue Dedicates Memorial Given Congregation Recently

B'Nai Israel Synagogue has dedicated the Yahrzeit Memorial Tablet recently presented to the congregation by Mrs. Barnett Davis and family to designate the anniversary of the death of members of the congregation.

The tablet is equipped with tiny electric bulbs which will be lighted to commemorate the deaths. The lights, symbolic of the soul, will burn all day on the Day of Atonement.

Rabbi B. A. Lichter explains the symbol with this quotation from the Book of Proverbs:

"The soul of man is the candle of the Lord."

Science Churches To Study 'Reality'

"Reality" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read tomorrow in all Christian Science churches. The golden text will be, "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him."

Man Fatally Injured In Fall on Steps

WINDBER, Pa., March 26.—Michael Normak, 34, was injured fatally when he slipped and fell down a flight of steps at his home.

$25,000 Fire Razes Catholic Church

CRESSON, Pa., March 26.—Fire late yesterday destroyed St. John's Catholic Church at Frugality, 16 miles from Cresson, with a loss of $25,000, according to an estimate made by the Rev. Michael Donovan, pastor. Firemen from Cresson fought the blaze.

MINISTERIAL STUDENTS QUIT

DELAND, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Nine ministerial students at Stetson University, a Baptist institution, withdrew yesterday and gave as their reason a dispute with President Lincoln Hulley over use of the college auditorium by a lecturer for another denomination.

They also claimed Stetson professors and forum speakers have often denied the infallibility of the Bible, forcing students to listen to insulting remarks about things they held sacred.

Last week the ministerial group learned Dr. Hulley had agreed to the use of the auditorium Sunday night by a Christian Science lecturer. They warned the president they would walk out if the lecturer appeared. Dr. Hulley was adamant and the students refused to attend classes this week.

DICE, READING RAIL HEAD, DIES

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP)—Agnew T. Dice, president of the Reading Company, fell dead in a street car last night while going home with his wife. Death apparently was due to heart failure.

He was taken to Hahnemann Hospital where he was pronounced dead. He was 70 years old and had been president of the Reading Company for 18 years.

In addition to his railroad activities he was a director in a number of banks and other companies.

Besides his widow he is survived by a son and two daughters.

Mrs. Dice accompanied her husband to the hospital, where she collapsed when told he was dead. She was placed under the care of the Dice family physician.

Idle Several Years, Mine to Resume

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 26.—The Amend mine of the Irwin Gas Coal Company in South Union Township will reopen April 1, giving work to 200 former employes. It has been idle for several years.

Butler St. Church To Stage Cantata

An Easter cantata will be presented tomorrow night in the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Fortieth and Butler streets. At the morning service the Rev. Samuel Hill will speak on "Seeing the Risen Lord."

Sharpsburg Pastor Talks on Easter

"He Is Risen" is the morning subject scheduled by the Rev. K. L. Cramer of the First Baptist Church, Sharpsburg. His evening subject will be "Baptism by Immersion."

100 TO TESTIFY ON FATAL RIOT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 26.—With nearly 100 witnesses yet to be called, the defense in the Arnold City mine riot case is not expected to close until Tuesday, according to the defense. A score or more of witnesses were to be heard today.

The defense has been attempting to discredit the stories of the shooting as recited by the commonwealth witnesses. Deputies Ted Hunt, J. B. Yoder and Roy Ingram admitted firing 10 shots. All were fired either in the ground or up in the air, they said.

Other witnesses were introduced to show that the commonwealth eye-witnesses admitted that they did not see the shooting of Mike Philipovich as they stated under oath earlier this week.

Joint Citizenship Campaign Opened

The Civic Club of Allegheny County and the Allegheny County League of Women Voters have entered upon their annual joint citizenship campaign and are collaborating in publishing a bulletin combining information upon the qualifications of candidates in the coming election.

Questionnaires have been sent to 400 candidates who have filed petitions.

The information includes the candidate's occupation, previous business experience, public offices held or candidacies, what, if any, party offices now holding, member of what civic, political, fraternal or similar organizations and a final question on platforms.

Drinking by Pupils Brings Liquor Raid

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 26.—City police and constables raided the place of Pete Aringo and Fante Deli as result of complaints of parents that boys and girls of school age were getting intoxicating liquor there. A truckload of wine and beer was confiscated, raiders reported. Bail of $1,500 each was posted by Aringo and Deli for a hearing.

$12,500 Rum 'Raft' Floats to Guardsmen

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS)—A new method used by rum runners to land cargoes failed and delivered 25 kegs of whisky malt valued at $12,500 into the hands of Coast Guardsmen.

The kegs, roped together, were found yesterday on the beach at Rockaway Point. Coast Guardsmen said that they had undoubtedly been thrown overboard at sea in the hope they would drift to shore and be retrieved by bootleggers.

U. S. Golf Executive, Madge Miller, Dies

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 26.—(Universal)—Miss Madge Miller, executive secretary of the women's committee of the United States Golf Association, died here yesterday. She had been in ill health since last fall when she underwent an operation. Miss Miller was former women's golf champion of Michigan.

Four Held in Phila. Communist Raids

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP)—Police raided two Communist organizations, ransacked their offices and arrested three men.

Several thousand circulars denouncing the treatment of William Brown, 16, the Negro awaiting trial for the slaying of Dorothy Lutz, 7, as a "frameup," were confiscated by the raiders and a fourth man was arrested while distributing the circulars on a street corner.

WINS ORATORIAL MEDALS

Pittsburgh Student Takes Honors at Johns Hopkins

To Saul Dorfman, of 5930 Beacon street, Squirrel Hill, former student at South High School, goes the unusual honor of winning, within one year, two major oratorical awards given at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. Dorfman, a sophomore at Hopkins, has won the DeTocqueville and Adams medals.

In 1931 Dorfman was given the DeTocqueville medal for the most learned discussion on some topic related to France. This was the last DeTocqueville medal to be awarded at the university, as the university withdrew from competition.

A week ago he won the Adams medal by his dramatic presentation of Clarence Darrow's plea, made in 1924 for the lives of

SAUL DORFMAN

Leopold and Loeb, convicted in Chicago of murder. In this latter competition Dorfman was greeted as winner by the audience before the decision was returned by the judges.

HUMANITY is a race of "nitwits," according to Professor Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia University, who has just completed a scholarly and thorough study of human stupidity and insists that even the genius often turns out to be just another "bonehead."

One example, illustrated above, tells of Benjamin Franklin, perhaps the greatest all-around intelligence America ever produced, sawing a hole in his barn door for his cat to walk through. It is reported he remembered the cat had a kitten so he sawed another smaller hole for the kitten.

Professor Pitkin offers many more examples to prove that most people are stupid. Look for them in the interesting article about his latest work in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

By Way of Report

Not many week ends ago there appeared here "The Last Will" allegedly prepared by a Mr. Lounsbury, who was supposed to have written it while in a looney house, where he died. Then came the information from Irving Berlin that it was actually written by a Mr. Williston Fish, an attorney. This has been confirmed by dozens of editorialists all over the country, who reprinted the Will, which was considered legally perfect and included among the records in Cook County, Illinois. Mr. Fish, however, explained that one of his kinsmen was named Charles Lounsbury and because he was such a kindly soul he has signed his name to it when he wrote it in 1897. But Lounsbury was never in an asylum.

Mr. Fish wasn't so happy over the editing of his now famous and respected fiction. He never wrote it the way one sees it now in [illegible] of that paper. He said that whenever a newspaper did not have at hand what it really wanted, such as a piece called "Reunion of Brothers After 50 Years" or "Marriage Customs Among the Natives of the Fricassee Islands," it would run his Will. The paper would generally correct and change it—and fix it up often in the most beautiful manner.

"So that," said Mr. Fish, "I am forced to believe that nearly every paper has on its staff a professor of literature and belles-lettres always ready to red-ink the essays of the beginner and give them the seeming of masterpieces and gradually to unfold to the novice all the marvels of the full college curriculum."

"This simple work of mine has been constantly undergoing change and improvement. Sometimes the head has been cut off, sometimes a beautiful wooden foot has been spliced on. When a certain press at Cambridge reprinted it and Cambridge undoubtedly is the home of acute belles-lettres, it used a copy in which the common word 'dandelions' was skilfully changed to flowers. Daisies was changed to blossoms and creeks—which is only a farmer-boy word was changed to brooks. When I said that I 'gave to boys all streams and ponds where one may skate' this Cambridge printer added 'when grim winter comes.' Some writers can boast that their works have been translated into all foreign languages, but when I look pathetically about for some little boast I can only say that this one of my pieces has been translated into all the idle tongues of English."

"The name, Charles Lounsbury, of the devisor in the will, is a name in my family of three generations ago—back in New York state—where the real owner of it was a big, strong, all around good kind of a man. I had an uncle, a lawyer, in Cleveland named after him—Charles Lounsbury Fish, who was a most burly and affectionate giant himself, and who took delight in keeping the original Charles Lounsbury's memory green. He used to tell us of his feats of strength and his brain, my uncle added, was equal to his brawn, and he had a way of winning friends and admirers as easy and comprehensive as taking a census. So I took the name of Charles Lounsbury to add strength and good will to my story."

That we hope satisfies the hundreds of inquirers who demanded an extra word or so about the renowned Will. There are others who assert that no record of it may be found in the Cook County records. The original and finished product itself—we learn—is now the property of the Title and Trust Company of Portland, Ore., where we believe Mr. Fish still dwells. Perhaps they will send you a copy.

The newest Dorothy Parker quip deals with Tallulah Bankhead, who met Miss Parker for the first time and exclaimed:

"I'm so thrilled! I'm to be in a new picture in which I am attacked by an Oriental aboard a burning ship. Then my lover arrives in time to slay him with a hatchet—and after we both escape to San Francisco—we are apprehended by the police—and then comes the courtroom scene!"

"Really?" meowed Dorothy, "but do you think the public is ready for it?"

In the New International Encyclopedia, which was brought out in 1906, the editors were Harry Thurston Peck and Frank Moore Colby. In this dictionary there is no mention of Samuel Butler, the author of "The Way of All Flesh" and "Erewhon."

But in it Harry Thurston Peck wrote an appreciative notice of the literary career of Frank Moore Colby, and Colby did the same for Peck.

$15,000 Rum Seized Near Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 26.—(INS.)—A six-ton truck loaded with more than 300 cases of liquors, valued at $15,000 by prohibition agents, was seized on the Black Horse pike near here.

The seizure included champagne, wines, uncut foreign brands of scotch and rye whisky.

Joe Rose, 27, the alleged driver, and Sol Lewis, both of Newark, were held for a hearing before a United States Commissioner.

Chevalier's Hour in Penn

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Maurice Chevalier came into the Penn yesterday in his newest film, "One Hour With You." And all those watching Frenchman Shay [illegible] as he [illegible].

The picture, titled after its theme song, is a bright and clever comedy romance with music. Monsieur Chevalier sings, leading woman Jeanette MacDonald sings and the whole Parisian police force sings.

Anyway, it seems that a young Parisian doctor is very much in love with his wife and therein lies a story or rather the elements of as gracious, scintillating and smart entertainment as you'd ever hope to see.

THE DIRECTORIAL PRESENCE

And though Chevalier is foremost in all of it, the supporting cast helps things along, while ever present in the shadows is that sure-fire directorial hand of Ernst Lubitsch.

The comedy gets bestial farcey in spots, but it is safe and sane thanks to a little thing called a [illegible].

When our Doctor Don Juan departs for a visit to a sick patient the musical accompaniment blares forth as if he were marching off to war. Which is one of many clever touches that belong to this production.

TALKS AT AUDIENCE

Past performances lead to the expectation that Chevalier will introduce something refreshingly novel. And he never disappoints. This time he interrupts the story plot long enough to address the audience. But we hope this doesn't start a movie vogue. Imagine a Frankenstein or a Mr. Hyde talking directly at you.

Among the supporting players are Genevieve Tobin, Roland Young and Charles Ruggles. And we know you'll be "crazy" about Mr. Ruggles when you see him dressed up in his Romeo costume.

On the stage is "Whirligigs," and as the title indicates, it's a whirling affair. Almost exclusively it is a dancing show. A fellow who makes a stepladder step and the Four Flash Devils, Negro dancers, are the topnotchers.

Some Riddles For Congress To Worry About

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Things we'd like to ask Congress while that august body is frying itself in its own fat:

Why aren't the statistic invited to the banquets to aid the starving?

Does a tax on the people help the people who have to pay it?

Has there ever been an overproduction of good eggs?

Why try to force 2.75 beer on us when the stuff we're getting now is much better and stronger?

Is it true that the Senate barber has asked for another Wickersham report to wipe his razors on?

Why all this hullabaloo about the cherry blossoms along the Potomac? You can't make cherry pie from the blossoms.

Looking over the progress made in Washington since convening in December can you tell us where you spent the winter?

Is this a government of the people for the people and by the people? Or is it a government from the people at the people and back again?

And who was the income tax [illegible] a seat? Do you think the elephant will forget who gave him that red pepper in the peanut?

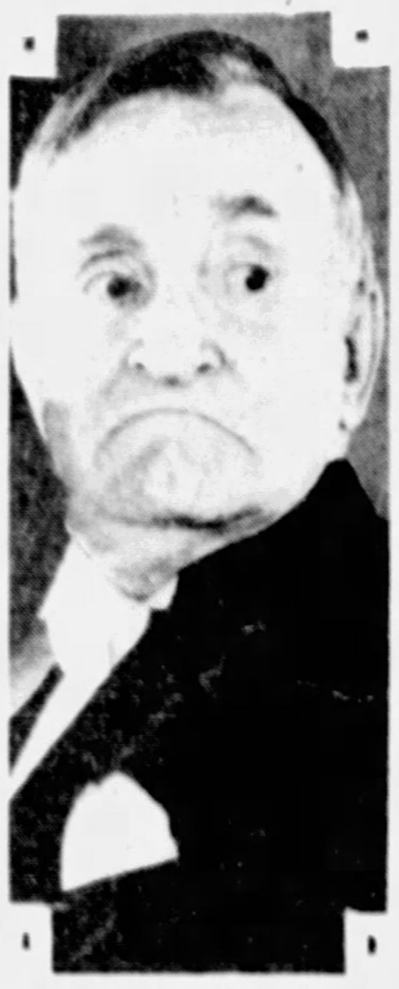
Mr. Kelly!



Here's Charlie Murray, as he appears in "Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood," the Warner film. And by the looks of Mr. Murray's face, Mr. Cohen must be near by.

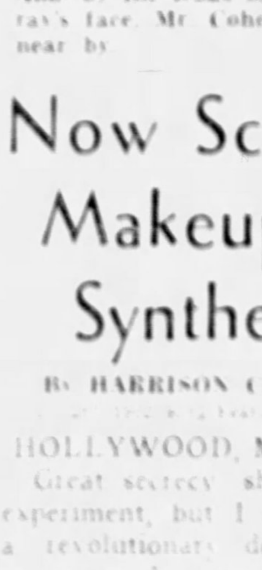
Now Screen Makeup Is Synthetic

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.

Great secrecy shrouds the experiment, but I understand a revolutionary development in screen character makeup is being tried out in the new Warner Brothers horror picture, "Dr. X."

A rubber-like chemical composition, a sort of synthetic flesh, has been developed by research workers for the Max Factor Makeup Company of Hollywood. This composition can be moulded into a mask which fits onto the face of the player.



Lionel Atwill

Grotesque character makeup upon which the late Lon Chaney and more recently Boris Karloff spent weary hours can be assumed in a few minutes in the new process.

Ultimately, I hear, the inventors expect to be able to accomplish such miracles as duplicating the features of one player upon the face of another.

Because of the reticence of all concerned details of the new synthetic flesh are difficult to obtain. As I hear it, though, patents for the composition already have been taken out.

"Dr. X," the first picture to use the new invention, has just been started at Warners with Lionel Atwill playing a leading role. This story also will be the first screen shocker to be filmed entirely in color.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

The boulevard was afflutter today with the rumor that M-G-M had bought "Rain" for Joan Crawford. Joe Schenck, who ought to know, tells me this isn't true. He'd like to borrow Joan, of course, to play the part, but I'm afraid this won't happen, either.

Joan Crawford

Anna Q. Nilsson could have signed three contracts in the last few weeks but turned all the pictures down because she didn't like the parts. Anna figures as long as she is coming back it ought to be in a suitable role.

Ricardo Cortez, who's to play a gossip columnist in his next, smokes the biggest pipe in Hollywood. No connection, of course.

Ran onto Jack Oakie wearing a new riding outfit—yellow turtle-necked sweater, fawn-colored pants, polished boots. He says he's going out for polo but don't know whether he will fit. Jack has turned himself over to a health school which operates on top of a Hollywood building. Other victims include Skeets Gallagher, Stuart Erwin, Buster Collier. Several of these health schools now operate here. They are open from 5 to 7 and members can drop in any time. Charges are $300 a year and no tipping allowed. Many of the film people have taken memberships.

Charlie Richards of R-K-O is Hollywood's only flying casting director. He's learning to be a pilot.

ROMANCE ENDS

When a messenger boy brought me a neat gray envelope yesterday I almost flipped it on the desk to read later. If I had I would have missed one of the most dramatic Hollywood stories of the year.

Inside this envelope were two sheets of stationery, one blue, one orange. The blue one had Ann Harding's name at the top. The other was Harry Bannister's.

They contained terse, straightforward statements that Ann and Harry had decided to be divorced.

The shock of this news was a great one. There had been nothing to suggest that this ideal Hollywood marriage was faltering, nothing unless that story I ran yesterday about Harry's contract being settled at R-K-O.

But who would have guessed?

Hero Carves In Stanley Picture

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Shades of "Arrowsmith," "Frankenstein" and "Behind the Mask." The doctor, that gentleman who is the first to be called and the last to be paid, certainly is having his day in the movies.

Now it is "Alias the Doctor" in the Stanley.

Well, when Hollywood can make anesthetics and operating tables as interesting as they do in this case, film audiences have no reason to complain.

"Alias the Doctor" is heavy drama. There's not a single splash of comedy. But it has a novel romantic angle and it is good entertainment. The cast, headed by the starring Richard Barthelmess, does well, too.

SON OF THE SOIL

Mr. Barthelmess is seen as the son of the soil who, assuming responsibilities not rightfully his, becomes a famous surgeon. At fadeout time, however, he lands behind the plough again. The setting is Austria.

Like in his long-ago "Weary River," when the movies tried to pass him off as a singing star, Mr. Barthelmess serves a prison term. However, it's only a brief interlude, a sort of in again, out again Finnegan.

An operating room is the scene of a moving climax. If you have a good imagination you'll be able to smell the ether or whatever the put-you-to-sleep stuff is in this film.

IN THE CAST

Supporting players include Marian Marsh, Norman Foster, Lucile Laverne and John St. Polis.

Benny Rubin, still eluding the keepers, and Jack Haley, former comedian in "Follow Thru," headline Dick Powell's new stage show, "Easter Follies." Rubin is one long loony scream. Every time he opens his mouth he sticks a knife in the back of Old Man English. As for Mr. Haley, he has discovered that the word "hell" is in the dictionary. Too bad!

Mr. Powell takes an active part in the Rubin-Haley exhibition and Mr. Rubin calls him the "love menace."

A good time is had by all.

Poe Mystery In Davis

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

As a tale of mystery and horror, "Murders in the Rue Morgue" by Edgar Allan Poe is deservedly ranked among the revered specimens of literature because of the fine literary talent of the author and because he was a pioneer in the writing of weird, puzzling tales. As a picture, now showing in the Davis, it lacks the strong appeal that it once held for readers and is chiefly interesting because it affords opportunity to observe Poe characters in action and to see the section of old Paris in which the story is laid and to sense, in a way, the feeling that pervades what was once considered the most baffling stories of its kind.

Bela Lugosi, of "Dracula" repute, gives another eerie characterization in the role of Dr. Mirakle, a crazy scientist whose mania along certain lines results in the death of three young women and finally arouses the suspicion of a young medical student whose activities eventually bring out that the young women were not drowned, as supposed. What really caused their death is the point that must not be revealed if you are going to get any kick out of the show.

Mr. Lugosi does well in his part but acting of the others appears rather amateurish. They include Leon Waycoff, as the medical student, and Sidney Fox as his sweetheart and near-victim of the mysterious murderer.

Cohen, Kelly In Warner Theater

By MARGARET GARRAHAN

Those two rollicking families, the Cohens and the Kellys, go "Holywood" and take turns at being upstage with limousines, haciendas and all the rest of it in "The Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood," new picture in the Warner.

The contentment which reigns when the picture opens with Charlie Murray as Kelly operating a spick-and-span restaurant a short distance away from a theater managed by George Sidney as Cohen, is quickly blasted when Kitty Kelly, played by June Clyde, crashes the movies through the efforts of her song-writing sweetheart, Melvin Cohen, played by Norman Foster.

That was in the days of old when all the movies were pantomime and the talkies were just being heard of and scorned.

Melvin enters Kitty's photograph in a contest, and very soon she finds herself a Hollywood satellite, living in a gorgeous home with her parents, who forget all about their old friends, the Cohens.

Things begin to happen when the Cohens arrive at the Kellys' home at the height of a party, forcing the latter to drop Pose No. 16, usually adopted in the presence of guests and depriving them of the chance to assume Pose No. 3, or something like that.

Anyway, with the advent of the talkies, Kitty's voice tests disqualify her while Melvin's song-writing booms, resulting in some upstageness on the part of the Cohens until the fade-out of the theme song.

The end finds the Kellys and the Cohens in a glorious reunion with all of the sham gone. Hollywood was only an interlude.

Three to Post Bond In Shakedown Case

Justice of the Peace Leo Mazik, Constable Irvey Acey and James Demelleo, all of East Deer Township, charged with conspiracy to extort and blackmail in an information filed before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, were to post bond of $1,000 each today.

County detectives filed the charges against the three for their alleged shakedown of Rocco Elkan and Louis Stavre, arrested for violation of the liquor law, detectives said. It was alleged that Elkan and Stavre paid $300 to "fix" the case before Mazik.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This thing of a political party controlling the House or the Senate is not always exactly what it's cracked up to be. The Democrats defeated the sales tax. By about next November when it has percolated into a lot more people's minds that it's the only tax, why some of these boys are going to have the privilege of staying home the next four years. Why should a sales tax work on gasoline and cigarets and not work on anything else. If people use as much tooth paste as they are advised to over the radio, a small tax on it would just about pay our national debt, to say nothing of lip rouge. Yours, WILL.

BITS OF LIFE
All in a Day
By Mark Hellinger

Honesty Always Pays

THE THREE gentlemen of Broadway sat in their hotel room and shook their heads gloomily. Permit me to introduce them. The thin bird on the bed was Jumbo Gus, who could do everything with a playing card but make it sit up and beg—and he was practicing on that. The man in the easy chair was Honest Tom, another gambler of international ill-fame. And the little chap at the window was George F——, one of the world's experts when it came to tampering with roulette wheels.

Thus you can readily see that you have been introduced to some very select society. And as long as you're with them now, you might as well sit around and watch the story develop. Although it grieves me very much to report the matter, it seems as though the three boys had fallen into evil times.

"I can't understand it," mused Honest Tom. "We have always been able to earn a very decent living. What has happened that things should change so completely?

"I know that there is a genuine depression in our midst. No one realizes it better than I. But, Gus, surely there are just as many suckers as there always were. Money may be tighter—but is anyone going to tell me that there is a depression in saps?"

Gus sighed.

"It's got me daffy, too, Tom," he returned. "We're willing to work just as hard as ever, but we don't seem to get no place. If we don't run into some kind of a streak pretty soon, we'll be sunk for the first time in plenty of years. Do you fellows realize that we haven't got more than $1,000 left among the three of us?"

The roulette man whistled.

"I didn't know we was as low as that," he muttered. "We got to do somethin'."

He paused. Then—

"I don't want you fellers to get sore at me," he went on, "and I know we never done nothin' like this before. But if we don't get some dough pretty soon by legitimate gamblin', I think we oughta go in for a little stealin'. Plenty of mugs are gettin' away with it, so why shouldn't three smart guys like us be able to stage a first-class robbery?"

Honest Tom shook his head vigorously.

"George," he murmured, "you pain me in the extreme manner. Are we fools, or are we gentlemen? Never let me hear you offer such a suggestion again.

"While you have been bleating, however, my mind has been active. And I think I have a plan that will net us a very tidy sum if it is carried through successfully."

The other two men leaned forward. Tom's plans were the backbone of the combination.

"On several occasions," he continued easily, "we have gone to Murray's gambling house on the upper West Side. Since we have dropped plenty of cash there, I feel slightly ill when I discuss the place. But inasmuch as my plan concerns this spot, it is necessary for me to talk of it.

"My suggestion is extremely simple. We know the layout up there as well as we know our own room. We know that the place is closed after the last customer has departed—and we know that it is not opened for business again until 9 o'clock the following evening. Hence, by no great process of reasoning, we know that the house is empty.

"Now, with George as our trump card, we have a grand thing in view. George can do tricks with a roulette wheel that no other man alive can do. It is my notion that George should fix one of the wheels in that house so that we can return the following night and beat the house for a great deal of capital.

"Do you follow me? After hours tonight, we—er—force an entrance into that house, as the saying goes. We proceed directly to the main roulette wheel and watch carefully while George plies his noble trade. Once we know exactly where the little ball will fall on certain spins, we leave the place exactly as we found it. We are then the first customers when the house reopens.

"Do you gentlemen see any merit in my suggestion?"

It goes without saying that they most assuredly did. A few more ideas and plans and everything was settled. The three men left their hotel room and drove to Murray's gambling house on the upper West Side.

From different positions they watched the house. They counted the customers who went in, and they marked off the customers as they came out. Around four in the morning the last client departed. Some 20 minutes later Mr. Murray stepped out and carefully locked his front door. And away he went.

The three gamblers held a whispered conference. They walked nonchalantly toward that same door. George produced several odd-looking keys from his pocket. In less than a minute the three men were inside the house.

The fixing of the roulette wheel was only a matter of routine for the expert. As Honest Tom and Jumbo Gus smoked their cigarets, George worked quickly with nimble fingers. Suddenly he straightened.

"All right, boys," he chirped. "Let's go."

And away they went . . .

What happened in that gambling house the following evening is really a shame to describe. Tom and Gus, of course, were the first customers in the place. They were warmly greeted by the management. Which is as it should have been because the two boys had been good customers in the past.

Using their $1,000 as a basis, Tom began to play the roulette wheel. To make their movements devoid of any suspicion, Gus placed small sums on numbers he knew must lose. Then as he saw Tom winning heavily, Gus nodded abruptly.

"I think I'll string along with you, Tom," he cried. "Looks as though you're in a lucky streak."

In less time than it will take you to read this story, if you're that foolish, the two men had broken the bank. They slipped into their overcoats, promised to return at another time and left the house . . .

* * *

Back in the hotel room they met George and divided their winnings. The actual amount I will not tell you because it is rather hard to believe. But you can take it from me that it was a grand haul.

"A fine piece of work, gentlemen," smiled Tom. "Truly excellent."

Gus wrinkled his brow.

"You want to know something, Tom?" he cried. "I think we're making a mistake by not going in for big robberies. After the easy way we got into that house, why couldn't we do it on a jewelry job? Look at the mess of dough we could pick up."

Honest Tom looked very mournful.

"I grant you that, Gus," he murmured. "But you don't look at the other side of things. Would that be honest?" . . .

War's Terror In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The mad flight of the terror-stricken Chinese, thrown into panic by the bombardment by the Japanese during the final attack upon Shanghai, is shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. In the crowds fleeing from the native quarter to the safety of the International Settlement are women carrying babies struggling forward to escape bombs that are falling like hail.

Other pictures from Shanghai show Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent, acting in the role of the Globe Trotter and interviewing Admiral Nomura of the Japanese fleet at Shanghai. Many of the questions are pointed, and the admiral declares in reply that the Japanese aggression was only brought about by her desire to protect her citizens living in China from persecution by the Chinese.

Thrillingly pictured is the marvelous race won by Australia wonder horse Phar Lap, who captured the Agua Caliente Handicap with its purse of $50,000. The vast crowd, the parade to the post and Phar Lap's sensational spring to the front on the back stretch are shown.

The destruction wrought by the tornado which cost the lives of 300 persons and the serious injury of many others is shown. Scenes from the districts adjacent to Tuscaloosa, Ala., picture whole blocks of dwellings crushed flat. At Northport, Ala., where martial law has been declared, troops are shown guarding the wrecked homes from possible looters. Bewildered men and women wander aimlessly amid the ruins of their former abodes.

First pictures of the giant dirigible Macon, to be the largest ever built, show half of her framework completed at the plant in Akron, O.

Sonny Goebel, 1-year-old, of Thousand Oaks, Cal., proves that lion tamers are born and not made. Sonny, whose father owns a lion farm, spends all his playing time inside a big cage with a score of lion cubs, cracking his little whip and herding the cubs into formations just like an old-timer.

In a special statement to Hearst Metrotone News, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot tells of her plan for relief of the unemployed. Mrs. Pinchot believes the government should put out a special bond issue and with the money derived build roads, schools and public buildings, thereby giving work to thousands of idle.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Events

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

March brides this year, I think, will out-rival the number of June brides and now that March is drawing to a close, there seems to be a wedding almost every day. One that took place this morning in Washington, Pa., will interest Pittsburghers. It is that of Irma Theakston, daughter of Mrs. Cora Welsh Theakston, of the Kings Arms apartments, South Negley avenue, to Clarence Summers Hunter, son of Mrs. Clarence Summers Hunter, of Washington, Pa. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. M. Linn, of Washington. After a West Indies wedding trip, the Hunters will make their home in North avenue, Washington.

Visit in New York

During the latter part of this week a group of Junior League girls have been in New York, guests of the Association of Junior League Clubs in the Waldorf-Astoria. The Pittsburgh guests include Barbara Ewing, Louise Totten, Phyllis Totten, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Jr., and Mrs. R. F. Moreland.

* * *

Added to the committee in charge of the Calvary Episcopal Church card party to be held April 4 in the parish house for the benefit of the Family Welfare Association is the name of Mrs. Francis Crandall.

Among those who have just taken tables for the affair are Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Miss Emilie L. Fuller, Mrs. John L. Brown, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Scaife, Mrs. Joel V. Burdick, Mrs. James F. Keenan, Mrs. H. R. Latimer, Mrs. Richard H. Hawkins, Mrs. R. D. Dalzell, Mrs. W. C. Dierks, Mrs. J. V. Blaxter, Mrs. John F. Casey, Mrs. William F. Rust, Mrs. E. T. Whiter and Miss Margaret Keeble.

Patrons For Play

Among the many things society folk are interested in is the production to be given by the music and drama departments of Carnegie Institute of Technology, April 6 and 7, in Carnegie Music Hall, of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Gondoliers."

Mrs. J. Hartley Anderson, Charles W. Dahlinger, Mrs. A. C. Simmons, Mrs. James Hay Reed and Miss Eliza Edwards are among those giving their support to the operetta.

Others are Mrs. L. D. Schoyer, James C. Reed, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, Mrs. Edward A. Woods, Mrs. A. R. Spence, John L. Porter, Mrs. Stephen L. Goodale, Henry Hornbostel, Mrs. Elmer Flaccus, Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, C. W. Heppenstall, Carroll Fitzhugh, A. W. Robertson and Dr. H. G. Schleiter.

Home for Easter

C. Evan Stewart and Howard G. Stewart, Jr., son of the Howard G. Stewarts, of Beechwood boulevard, motored home yesterday from the Greenbrier Military School, Louisville, W. Va., for the Easter holidays.

The H. A. Fridays, of Woodwell street, have been at the Hotel Belmont, Chicago.

Peggy Jean MacGowan is spending her Easter vacation with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert MacGowan. She will return to Blackstone College, Blackstone, Va., next week. She's president of the sophomore class, and a member of the Dramatic Club.

Miss Romaine P. Clark is at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, for a spring visit.

Women's World Congress Committee Will Meet

A meeting of the local committee in charge of obtaining signatures for the world congress of women will be held Wednesday morning at the Woman's City Club. Word received from Lena Madesin Phillips, national chairman of the signature-getting movement, states that Ruth Nichols, the aviatrix, will visit each city which obtains its quota within a given time, and the local committee will endeavor to have its 25,000 signatures when the time is set.

The idea, which has already been explained in these columns, is that the Postal Telegraph Company will donate $100,000 to the National Council of Women for its world congress of women at the World's Fair next year, providing the women of the country guarantee their good faith by obtaining 1,000,000 women's signatures. The signing carries with it no obligation whatsoever.

Ely Culbertson Expert To Give Bridge Lessons

Mrs. Alfred Taylor, a member of Ely Culbertson's bridge organization, the Deschappelle Club of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, will conduct duplicate contract tournaments at Webster Hall on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and give lessons in Culbertson's method at Webster Hall, beginning next week.

Anti-Church Crusade Opened in Chile

SANTIAGO, March 26.—(AP.)—The Chilean anti-clerical society opened a campaign against the church last night with demonstrations which attracted large crowds to the Boulevard Alameda, Santiago's main street, but police watched carefully and there were no disorders.

Antichurch agitation was something new in Chile, particularly during such religious periods as Easter week. The movement was attributed in some quarters to Communists.

Anna Frishkorn Is Married to Rev. Cochran

Announcement has been made of the marriage on Thursday of Miss Anna Mae Frishkorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Frishkorn, of New Brighton, to the Rev. George Mason Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig Cochran, of Carrick. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. James A. Kelso, president of Western Theological Seminary, in his home.

The bride wore a gown of flowered chiffon with matching hat, and carried a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. A former classmate at Wooster College, Miss Annabelle Crop, of Mingo, O., was the maid of honor, and wore turquoise blue chiffon with a matching hat, and a corsage of yellow roses and pink sweetpeas. Serving as best man was Eric G. Mantle.

The bride was graduated at Wooster in 1930, and the Rev. Cochran from the same college, class of 1929. After his graduation on May 5, from Western Theological Seminary, they will reside in Brilliant, O., where he has received a call to the First Presbyterian Church.

Astor Yacht Party Ends Southern Trip

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 26.—(AP.)—Vincent Astor, son of the late John Jacob Astor, was here with a party of friends today aboard his yacht, the Nourmahal, after a cruise in Mexican waters and the South Seas.

Those aboard included Mrs. Baldwin Preston, Eleanor Barry, Gertrude Conoway, Virginia Cherrill, Dr. Leslie Heiser, W. R. Stewart and Milton Holton. Aboard the yacht were many specimens of rare fish.

STAGE CRITICS' FOE COLLAPSES

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The critic of the critics, Representative Sirovich of New York, is seriously ill with a kidney ailment which brought about his collapse yesterday, and he may have to undergo an operation shortly.

The indefatigable little chairman of the House Patents Committee burst into prominence a short time ago by lambasting the dramatic critics of the big cities, accusing them of killing the legitimate theater through reckless and unfair criticism of the stage's best offerings.

It was part of his campaign to put across a new copyright bill which he believes essential to the proper protection and encouragement of American artistic effort.

He sat yesterday in the House waiting for a chance to have his say on the Cullen amendment to the revenue bill, to tax 2.75 beer. Failing to get his word in, he walked back to his rooms in the House Office Building. There he collapsed. Sirovich is a doctor as well as a Congressman representing a populous section of Manhattan.

44 Organizations Represented at Gathering

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The first club meeting ever held here for the sole purpose of discussing publicity was the conference held yesterday in Utility Hall under auspices of the publicity committee of the Allegheny County Federation.

It was attended by 79 women representing 44 organizations, among them officers and chairman of the general state and county federations. Some came from Washington and Beaver counties also.

Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, county publicity chairman, presided and introduced the club editors of the three newspapers, who answered questions and criticized samples of publicity, showing how the club editor and the press chairman co-operate to better advantage and mutual helpfulness.

Miss Karen Fladoes, director of Utility Hall, and hostess for the day, in welcoming her guests spoke of the service Utility Hall offers the homemaker. During the tea hour she was assisted by a number of prominent club women, most of whom were press chairmen. It was through Miss Fladoes' courtesy that the tea table was centered with a lovely arrangement of spring flowers. Each of the club editors was presented with a potted plant.

BUTTONS ARE USED FOR COLOR CONTRASTS ON SPRING CLOTHES

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 26.—The button is being pressed into valiant service this spring, especially when it comes to coats. The military note that sounds through the new collection means, of course, that buttons, many buttons must be worn, for what is a uniform without bright buttons embellishing it. The double-breasted closings as well as the diagonal shoulder closings must all be marked by buttons. Lots of suits too have gone in for buttons in a big way and some designers have included frocks that have a row of buttons from neck to hem. Buttons always make a fine trimming and are grand too when used to create a color contrast. The new coats, especially the unfurred models, are tremendously smart, big and youthful. Lyolene is one designer who has specialized in this type of coat and she has been tremendously successful, the majority of such models having been bought by professional buyers for exploitation at home. For this fashion is particularly well adapted to our countrywomen, and so it would seem that Lyolene's visit to America last December showed her just how suitable these coats would be for us.

* * *

TODAY'S SKETCH shows a new Lyolene model featuring the military motif and buttons. The material is a loosely woven woolen with a diagonal wide raised rib. The color is rusty red and with it is worn a cotton scarf in navy blue with white dots. The double-breasted closing has a group of three nickel buttons at each side. There are two buttons at the cuffs. Flaring triangular pockets are attached at each side of the front panel. The right hand sketch shows a Vera Borea suit in rough Rumanian crash in its natural unbleached shade. Triangular epaulets pleated at the sides take care of the wide shoulder line so essential this season. The jacket has no collar but the narrow collar of the vividly colored linen blouse is worn outside as a finish. These bright linen blouses are going to be very much worn.

Trimble Funeral

Funeral services for Francis Herron Trimble, Jr., killed Wednesday in an automobile accident near Easton, Pa., while returning home for the Easter vacation from Princeton University, where he was a sophomore, were to be held this afternoon in his home, 7152 Brighton road, Ben Avon. Burial will be in Highwood Cemetery. He was born in Ben Avon September 4, 1911, and was educated in Ben Avon schools and Shady Side Academy. He was the son of Mrs. Louise Evans Trimble and the late Francis Herron Trimble. He was a member of Emsworth United Presbyterian Church and recently had been elected to membership in the Campus Club at Princeton. Besides his mother, he leaves two sisters, Elizabeth and Martha Trimble.

Blint Funeral

Funeral services for the Rev. Edward E. Blint, of 939 East End avenue, Wilkinsburg, a member of the board of American Missions and the board of managers of the Old People's Home at Zelienople, who died Wednesday, were to be held this afternoon in Calvary Lutheran Church, Wilkinsburg. Burial will be tomorrow in Lock Haven. The Rev. Mr. Blint was graduated from Gettysburg College in 1890 and Gettysburg Seminary in 1893. He was ordained in 1893 and then became pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Littlestown, Pa., where he served until 1905 when he became pastor of the Hebron Church, Leechburg. He served in that position till 1929. He was a member of the board of education of United Lutheran Churches and a trustee of the Loysville Orphans Home.

Penniless Kansans Pay Bills in Work

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., March 26.—(AP.)—Residents here who are unable to pay their bills to the municipal water and light departments are given opportunity to work out their debts on city jobs. Where work is unavailable in the city water and light departments, the delinquents are put to work by other city departments.

350-MILE AUTO SPEED SEEN

PARIS, March 26.—(INS.)—M. Stepp, French inventor of a racing motor car which he claims will travel from 325 to 385 miles an hour, said today he hoped to take his machine to Daytona Beach, Fla., to attempt to beat the 253.97 m. p. h. record recently set by Sir Malcolm Campbell, British driver.

The inventor said the car's initial tryout at Chatou yesterday was successful.

Powered by three areo engines of 800 horsepower each and placed to form a motor turbine, the racer in bench tests developed 22,000 revolutions a minute for over 57 hours. The car has a smaller engine to start it and set the three large motors going.

The machine is over 30 feet long, weighs about 5,500 pounds, and is steadied in motion by a tail fin.

English Party Seeks Revolutionary Policy

BLACKPOOL, England, March 26.—(INS.)—The adoption of a revolutionary policy was to be asked at the conference of the Independent Labor Party opening here today.

Leaders were to seek abandonment of the reformist policy in order to obtain freedom of action in their relationship with the official Labor Party.

Chinese Diplomat Due On U. S. Mission

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(AP.)—The Chinese consulate here announced that Dr. Frank W. Lee, former vice minister of foreign affairs for the Chinese government, would arrive here today en route to Washington and European capitals on a secret mission. He landed recently in Seattle.

West Brownsville Fire Routs Family

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 26.—Fire forced 10 members of the Dominick Veitch family in West Brownsville from their home. Veitch leaped from a porch roof to get aid. Loss was $6,500. An overheated furnace caused the blaze.

'Shorts' Now Arranging To Borrow Needed Stocks

The important professionals who have been on the short side of the market for some time are credited with making arrangements to assure them a supply of stocks for delivery purposes after the beginning of next month. Considerable talk has been heard in the past few sessions of the prospects of a sharp rally against the short interest in the next few days. While it is probable that some of the smaller outside pessimists may have difficulty in borrowing shares the larger traders doubtless will make their arrangements before the time when a more limited supply of certificates is anticipated.

Judging from the discussions in the financial district the outstanding factor at the moment is the federal tax question. Conservative interests are expressing the hope that Congress will avoid, so far as possible, any taxation scheme which would have a tendency to delay economic recovery. Because of the fact that this is a presidential year there are some who fear that Congressional representatives in Washington may overlook the needs of the country in their efforts to keep political fences in repair.

Several times recently the action of the markets for commodities has been [illegible] the better the commodity markets will be among the first to reflect the change. With commodities displaying weakness such interests naturally are not willing to maintain long positions in stocks. The commodity markets are [illegible] just now.

When railroad stocks were [illegible] talk was heard in the financial district regarding the situation in Missouri Pacific, especially in connection with the $11,700,000 of bank loans which are due April 1. At that time interests closely connected with railroad affairs expressed confidence that the payment would be met, but this was doubted in most quarters, resulting in the circulation of various unfavorable rumors. It is now noted that Wall street generally has veered to the view that the bank loans will be paid when due, and this fact has been responsible for much less pessimism on the rails in speculative circles.

While Otis Elevator reflected the conditions ruling in general business last year the management was able to show further improvement in the normally strong financial position of the company. Net current assets at the end of last year totaled $23,130,402, which included $14,644,264 in cash and government securities. This latter item was increased by approximately $2,400,000 during 1931. Inventories of $5,389,406 were only 21 per cent of total current assets and were about $2,000,000 under the total at the close of 1930. The company's receivables were reduced approximately $3,300,000 during the past year.

The substantial decrease in profits of National Cash Register in 1931, as compared with the previous year, is due directly to the sharp falling off in the sales, which declined to $28,870,302 last year, from $45,280,787 in 1930. There was a slight improvement in the net working capital of the company at the end of last year, but encouraging improvement was recorded in cash, which totaled $3,562,296 at the end of December, compared with $1,783,771 on December 31, 1930.

Cotton Belt Gets Approval on Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(INS)—The St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt) Railroad has received authorization from the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $29,399,750 of general and refunding mortgage five per cent gold bonds.

They are to be exchanged par for par for so much of the bonds as may be necessary for all of any part of $9,000,000 of promissory notes and for bonds under mortgages having liens prior to the second and refunding mortgage.

Authority was also given to repledge and repledge at such a ratio as the commission may hereafter approve $18,839,000 of the bonds as collateral security for the promissory notes.

Suit Filed Against Lago Petroleum

WILMINGTON, Del., March 26.—(INS)—A bill asking for an accounting against the Lago Petroleum Corporation and the Venezuela Syndicate, Inc., both of New York, was filed by the Wampun Oil Corporation of New York in the Court of Chancery here.

The bill contends that while the complainant corporation does not pray for any special relief from the Venezuela Syndicate it is named in the suit because it is a necessary party.

The Lago Petroleum Company owns and operates vast oil properties in Venezuela and elsewhere. The Wampun Corporation charged the Lago Corporation with breach of contract.

OPINIONS VARY ON STEEL TREND

Bright Side Sees Belated Spring Rise Coming Next Month; March Output Off

By B. E. V. LUTY

A wide difference of opinion is found in the steel trade as to the condition and trend at the moment, some producers being disappointed and unwilling to make a really favorable prediction for the future, while others expect a very decided improvement in demand within the next two weeks. The two conclusions are of course based on entirely different premises.

The one party observes that order receipts had a noticeable decrease two or three weeks ago and ingot production is off this week to a rate not over 25 per cent against an average of 26 per cent in February and the fore part of March. As March has regularly made a particularly good showing of improvement this is regarded as disappointing.

The other party insists that there is increased steel buying in sight to develop in an important way within a week or two and aligns this prospect with the theory long held that unusual spring improvement would be sluggish in developing, hence that activity ordinarily developing in February and March would fall in April and later.

DECLINE HALTED

So much is made of small variations in steel buying and steel demand [illegible] than two years of marked decrease there has been virtual steadiness in tonnage for six months. This according to many observers furnishes a stable foundation on which improvement can be predicted. Equipment of various sorts has been running down and eventually will need much attention.

[illegible] three months and [illegible] now regarded as a matter of only a short time until there is marked increase. When orders do come they will come suddenly and will be for very prompt deliveries.

PRICES NEARING TEST

Reports as to steel price stabilization are quite favorable so far as they can do at this time, there being so little actual test as buyers have been covered more or less and in certain instances deliveries will extend over next month. On all really new business in the various products involved the new prices have been quoted for several weeks.

Tin plate looks sluggish for the time of year but the whole season is late. The tin plate industry as a whole is running at between 40 and 45 per cent.

Fabricated structural steel contracts have been running at a fairly uniform rate since the first of the year, about 15,000 a week, against weekly rates of about 35,000 tons during 1931 and 1930 and about 45,000 tons in 1929.

Cuba Raises Import Tariff on Motors

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—Increased import duties on a number of important commodities have been put into effect by Cuba.

A dispatch to the Commerce Department stated the new decree materially changes the tariff schedules resulting in an increase in the rates on automobiles, trucks and motorcycles, hog lard, lard compounds and neutral lards and various unrefined, refined or semi-refined vegetable oils, while a decrease of the rate on automobile and truck chassis and tractors is effected.

It was said the increased duties were promulgated to protect certain established industries and to foster the national manufacture of automobile bodies.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Bank settlements are considerably below those of the earlier weeks of the month. Total clearings this week of all leading cities in the United States as reported to Dun's Review were $4,869,144,000, a reduction of 39.5 per cent as compared with the total for the same week of last year. At New York City clearings were $3,281,566,000, a decline of 42.0 per cent from last year's figures, while the total for the cities outside of New York of $1,587,578,000 were 30.5 per cent less.

Clearings at leading cities as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co. showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago follow:

AUTO INDUSTRY GOING AFTER BUSINESS

Intensive Sales Drive by Low-Priced Car Builders Predicted for Next Month

DETROIT, March 26.—(AP.)—A drive for business such as the automobile industry has not seen in years is expected in trade circles to get under way early next month.

The three largest producers in the low price field—Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth—are believed ready to initiate a period of vigorous competitive sales activity which the industry as a whole believes will definitely break down the sales resistance that has marked the last two years.

New models already have been announced by Ford and Plymouth. If other manufacturers are planning new models in the immediate future the trade has no official information of the fact. Most makers brought out at show time in January the types they intend to carry through the current year.

KEEN COMPETITION

With the customary spring expansion about due, although of somewhat uncertain proportions, all manufacturers are giving special attention to their distributing divisions. Upon the dealer organizations, they say, will depend the success of the big drive to revive the motorcar market.

Walter P. Chrysler, in announcing the new Plymouth, frankly stated it was being brought out by "the necessity of meeting competition" in the low price field, competition "expected to be keener this year than ever before due to the resumed activity of one of the largest producers for this market."

BUYERS FAVORED

While the new Ford models are understood to have received final approval from Henry Ford, their formal presentation by dealers is not expected for at least another 10 days.

Most of the industry's interest right now is centered on the impending campaign in the low price field, which accounts for approximately 75 per cent of all the business done by motorcar manufacturers. There has been no suggestion of a price war in the Ford-Chevrolet-Plymouth group. At the same time the trade believes the buyer is in direct line to obtain greater advantage than ever before out of the competition among the leading producers in the low price bracket.

WINDOW GLASS DEMAND UP

General conditions in the glass industry show little change according to American Glass Review. The window glass trade continues active in the flat glass division and has supplied most of the news in the past few days. Keen competition for business prevails in the bottle and container division and is more marked there than elsewhere in the glass industry.

Recent developments in the window glass field leading toward stabilization were aided by the severe weather between March 6 and 16. Orders for window glass picked up last week as they had after the announcement of price increases around February 20.

The Blackford Window Glass Company, Vincennes, Ind., has resumed operations after being idle for one year. It is expected that other units shortly will get into operation. On the opposite side, however, is the closing for an indefinite period of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company plant at Lancaster, O. This is a small unit and has not been operating at capacity.

While under the average for the last five years, output of pressed and blown glassware continues fair with some factories in better shape for orders than others.

Senate Sets Date For Coal Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—Congressional steps to bring order out of chaos in the coal industry have been dropped until April 5, when opponents of the Davis-Kelly bill will be heard before a sub-committee of the Senate Mines and Mining Committee.

In the meantime, it is hoped that the attitude of the administration toward the pending measure may be ascertained. The Department of Justice has not rendered a report on the bill, while the Department of Commerce hesitates to make any comments on its merits, or whether it should be enacted into law. It was said by a committee member that these departments would be asked again for an expression.

Committee to Meet On Tin Output Curb

LONDON, March 26.—The International Tin Committee will meet here April 22 to decide whether the further cut in production of 8,420 tons a year will become effective May 1 or June 1.

The pool's holdings of tin did not increase in February, standing at 21,000 tons of metallic tin. February exports of tin were 6,111 tons.

Adjusted export figures for the first complete year of restriction show that the authorized quota of 113,593 tons, including the Siamese quota, was exceeded by only 36 tons.

KREUGER - TOLL ASSETS DOWN

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 26.—(AP)—A commission appointed to investigate the affairs of Kreuger & Toll, the company controlled by the late Ivar Kreuger, reported yesterday that the inquiry thus far indicates the company's position is not strong. The commission's statement said:

"Should its affairs have to be wound up at prices obtainable at present, it is not certain that its assets would be sufficient to cover its liabilities, even if participating debentures were excluded.

"In the interest of the creditors, the problem now being considered is the manner in which liquidation can be carried out without immediate realization of the company's resources, a step which is not desirable in the present state of things."

GREATEST NEED HELD HEALTHY CREDIT

Dominant Motif in All Economic Bills Should Be Counter Deflationary

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The dominant motif in all near term economic legislation should be counter deflationary. The paramount need is for healthy and controlled credit expansion to prime the stalled engine of industry, commerce and agriculture.

Mr. Rukeyser.

In voting for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Glass-Steagall act Congress cast a ballot in favor of business recovery. On the other hand the recent tax revolt, with the intention of installing uneconomic tax rates, would constitute a ballot in favor of further depression and heightened unemployment. Fiat relief by governmental intervention has been ineffective thus far, partly because various moves have been inconsistent and have tended to nullify one another.

BILL MERITORIOUS

Fundamentally there is much that is meritorious in the Glass bill to end racketeering in the banks. Yet the major need is to restore normal economic life. And even temporary postponement of desirable long-term reforms would not be too high a price to pay for economic recovery.

E. E. Garrison, Greenwich, Conn., analyst, proposes a counter deflationary amendment to the Federal Reserve act to provide for "the building up of depleted stocks of staple goods and commodities, and so to enable the re-employment of idle labor, and the restoration of buying power." The technique suggested is that "for one year after the final enactment hereof producers and manufactures of durable, staple goods and commodities be encouraged to apply to Federal Reserve banks or solvent banks correspondent with Federal Reserve banks for the discount of 60, 90 and 120-day acceptances or promissory notes to the amount necessary to meet such labor payroll, material purchases and factory overhead expense as shall be requisite and necessary to the gradual building up of stocks of such staple, durable goods to such volume in each case as shall be agreed upon between said producer and the bank to which his application is made."

BUYING POWER NEED

This proposal would definitely transform the Federal Reserve from a critical agency which passes on the quality of commercial paper into a sales promotion vehicle. Though achieving credit expansion, the method would greatly reduce the liquidity of the Federal Reserve system itself. Though the plan might break the deadlock temporarily, it would merely shift materials from one business group to another. The more fundamental need is to put buying power into the hands of consumers rather than middlemen.

Wholesalers, dealers and retailers will tend to put in more normal sized inventories as soon as they see the curve of consumption move up. The fundamental need is to revive consumer buying power. This can be accomplished by summoning at least part of the unemployed back to payrolls. If private business cannot see its way clear to do this, the government should provide emergency employment through acceleration of public works.

MARKET UNDER CONSIDERABLE PRESSURE

Issues Losing Point or More Include Telephone, Steels, Can and P. & G.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The stock market resumed activity after the holiday with prices under considerable pressure.

Defeat of the sales tax in Congress, after the close of Thursday's market, leaving the national budget still to be balanced, was regarded in most quarters as the chief cause of renewed selling.

Issues losing a point or more in the first half hour included American Telephone, United States Steel, American Can, Union Pacific and Procter and Gamble.

Bethlehem Steel appeared on the tape with an opening block of 4,000 shares, but this was a ticker error, the first sale being 1,400 shares. Selling was generally in moderate volume, but the list showed little resistance.

The whole question of balancing the national budget, over which there has been considerable concern in Wall street, was again brought to the fore in President Hoover's appeal. There was general support for the chief executive in his appeal for prompt action on the ground that the establishment of the government's finances on a sound basis is the first prerequisite for bringing about early business recovery.

The Federal Reserve Board statement covering February, which showed that definite improvement had resulted from the liberalization of the Federal Reserve act and from the operation of the new Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was well received.

The weekly trade reviews also spoke of some evidences of retail business improvement, but in the principal barometers of business there was slight change.

The conflicting viewpoints presented in the Kreuger & Toll situation caused some fresh apprehension, with the Stockholm investigating committee advocating a moratorium for the company while the firm's American bankers stressed their belief, based on the late Mr. Kreuger's report, that the company has enough cash on hand to meet its obligations.

The British pound sterling continued its vigorous upsweep, with cables moving to a new 1932 high price in early trading at $3.75¼, or an overnight gain of 5¼ cents.

CUBANS TO CUT SUGAR YIELD

HAVANA, March 26.—(AP.)—President Machado has been asked by the Cuban Sugar Institute to restrict Cuba's 1932 sugar production to 2,700,000 tons, plus any sugar the mills may have made since grinding started January 15, over the quotas to be assigned to each mill.

The institute's decision has been communicated to the International Sugar Council which asked early this week that the Cuban output be limited to 2,500,000 tons in exchange for a guarantee that the 1932 exports from Java would not exceed 1,500,000 tons.

Other producing countries which are parties to the international production-control agreement will have until the first of next week to reply to Cuba's newest proposal. Members of the Cuban Institute said that if it is rejected Cuba automatically will retire from the agreement.

Automobile Output Down in February

WASHINGTON, March 26.—February automobile production in the United States and Canada amounted to 122,890 units, compared with 123,075 in January and 229,811 in February, 1931, the Commerce Department reports. For two months output totaled 245,965 units, against 408,155 in the first two months of 1931.

PRICES STEADY ON LOCAL BOARD

Securities Here Remain In Narrow Range, While New York List Recedes

Prices held fairly steady on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange on the resumption of business today following the Good Friday suspension yesterday. The list here did not reflect more than mild influence of the downturn on the "big board," where railroads in many cases went into new low ground and industrials sagged from fractions to three points.

The local oils were firm in response to the raise in crude prices in the mid-continent, where "dollar oil" will be in effect April 1. This is an advance of 15 cents for the top grade. Lone Star Gas was unchanged in the early dealings, selling within a small fraction of its bear market low. Columbia Gas was lower with the New York quotation.

RETAIL SALES SHOW GAIN

While there has been a slight improvement in the demand for spring merchandise due primarily to the near approach of Easter, weather conditions have not been favorable and buying as a whole continues much below normal, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review.

Merchants continue to buy on the hand-to-mouth basis and considerably warmer weather is needed to stimulate buying of men's and women's clothing, hats and millinery in particular. There has been a slight improvement in the sale of moderate priced and cheap footwear, and retail prices are averaging from 15 to 20 per cent lower than a year ago. A slight improvement is noted in the demand for hardware and farm and garden tools and implements. Lumber and other building materials continue to move very slowly and construction work is still abnormally low.

There has been no improvement in the collection situation in this district, both wholesalers and retailers reporting the average slow.

PROPOSE LIMIT ON OIL FLOW

AUSTIN, March 26.—(AP.)—Recommendation that oil production in the United States be limited to 2,373,000 barrels per day between April 1 and October 1 was made by representatives of Kansas, Oklahoma and California at a meeting here.

The committee proposed that Texas be limited to 875,000 barrels, a decrease of 27,000 barrels from the last recommendation of the group.

Thurman Hill, Kansas Public Service Commissioner, said that since other states had yielded a part of their production to Texas during the chaotic period in the East Texas field that it was felt in Oklahoma and Kansas the allowables of those two states should be increased.

He predicted that if Texas gave assurance of continued control that the price of oil which was increased to $1 Thursday by several companies in the mid-continent area would receive another boost within the near future.

Plate Glass Producers End Year in Strong Financial Positions

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

BOTH LEADING makers of plate glass showed the effects of the general depression acutely in their income accounts, but the two organizations remained in strong financial positions at the close of the year and had been able to continue the work of modernizing plant facilities.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company reported a net profit of $2,201,747 after depreciation, depletion and obsolescence for 1931. This was equivalent to $1.01 a share on the capital stock. In 1930 net profit was $4,743,538 or $2.19 a share while in 1929 net profit was $11,685,311 or $5.39 a share. Federal taxes were deducted from earnings in 1929 and 1930. The fact that no mention of taxes is made in the report for 1931 probably is accounted for by a refund of $695,134 received during the year.

Libby-Owens-Ford showed the effects of bad business even more keenly in its report. Net loss for the calendar year of 1931 was $1,098,195 after deducting depreciation, special reserves and non-recurring charges. This compared with net profit of $1,419,303 or 61 cents a share in the year ended September 30, 1930. The company has changed its fiscal year to coincide with the calendar year. In the three months ended December 31, 1930, net loss was $601,919. In the fiscal year ended September 30, 1929, net profit was $3,515,653 or $1.83 a share.

Products of Companies Show Wide Differences

THESE RESULTS for 1931 cannot be taken as a reflection against either management. The two companies are the dominant plate glass producers but their products do not entirely coincide. Libby-Owens-Ford makes much more sheet glass than Pittsburgh Plate. The latter company, on the other hand, is engaged in the production of a wide range of products other than glass. These include paints, varnishes, cement, brushes and chemicals. Libby-Owens-Ford has just gone through a series of mergers and has not had time to fully integrate its operations.

These factors make it impossible to compare the results shown by one company with those of the other.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass reduced its annual dividend rate from $2 a share to $1 a share with the payment made on December 31, 1931. Libby-Owens-Ford discontinued dividends at the close of 1930. Previously the stock was on a $1 annual basis.

Pittsburgh Plate Is Free of Funded Debt

PITTSBURGH PLATE Glass Company has no funded debt or preferred stock. Libby-Owens-Ford has no preferred stock. Its only funded debt consists of $9,000,000 of 5 per cent notes due 1933 to 1938. This was issued to acquire the glass plants of the General Motors Corporation.

Both companies are in exceptionally good current financial positions.

Pittsburgh Plate at the close of 1931 had current assets of $31,717,049 against current liabilities of only $2,545,936. Cash of $2,315,610 almost equaled all current liabilities.

Libby-Owens-Ford had current assets of $7,716,397 against current liabilities of $901,039. Cash alone amounted to $2,611,573 and was nearly three times all current liabilities.

EGYPTIAN COTTON

World consumption of Egyptian cotton has increased materially during the past year, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service. In the first half of the present season the world used 510,000 running bales, compared with 465,000 in the second half of last season and 400,000 in the first half. The Egyptian crop this season is only about 858,000 bales, compared with 1,114,000 last season and 1,146,000 two seasons ago.

MANUFACTURING DATA GIVEN

The number of manufacturing establishments engaged in the making of each commodity classified separately for the census of manufactures will be shown in a special report to be issued shortly by the Commerce Department. It will show the quantity and value of each commodity fabricated by industry groups and ... as well as the number of establishments ... of such commodities. A well cross-referenced commodity index will be included to facilitate the use of this information.

Should Married People Step Out Now and Then?

Jeanne is wondering. She thinks a night out among 'em now and then would be grand. Nothing snooty, you understand. No whoopee. Just an evening of jolly comradeship under the bright lights, with a little gay music and maybe a bunch of violets on the shoulder of her best dress. But—

"What for?" asks the big boy.

"Isn't home good enough for you? We're married now. What's the good of chasing around? My own fireside's fun enough for me."

Is he right? Is Jeanne selfish because she can't get a bang out of sitting in front of the radio evening after evening watching him read the paper?

"My dear Miss Martin:

"I would like to have you read my story and tell me what you think about it. I wish you would tell me if you think I am asking too much when I ask for a little recreation in my life.

"There are just two of us, my husband and myself. I do all my own work, even laundry, including all the curtains as well as linen and clothes. I never send anything out. I have a six-room apartment to take care of, and that means pretty steady work if you're going to keep things nice.

"I don't mind that. I love my home and I thoroughly enjoy keeping it spick and span. That is not my problem.

"My problem is that my husband never wants to go out anywhere. The idea of amusement of any kind never enters his head. He wants to just stay at home quietly and read the paper or talk a little or maybe read a book.

WANTS SOME FUN

He doesn't care for visiting or having company or going places and he says I ought to be contented, but it's driving me crazy. He says I ought to be happy to have him at home, wanting no one but me. But—well, I'm not.

"I love him, and I do like to be with him, but I'd like a little sparkle and fun, too. I have more ambition in me than to want to just sit like a bump on a log night after night.

"I don't ask for night clubs or million dollar dinners or whoopee, just a little pleasure, such as going out for an evening of new sights with my own husband.

"Am I asking too much?

"If he or I were crippled, then there would be a reason for staying at home like this. But we're not. Life is short, and I'd like to see a little of it. I think we are entitled to a few pleasures. What's the use of living just to drudge, eat and sleep?

"My husband is all business. He is well liked by his associates. But it seems to me that it isn't necessary to stay at home all the time. Shouldn't he be willing to give me a little of the fun I want as well as please himself?" JEANNE.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

I'm going to pass that on to the men themselves, Jeanne. Maybe it will start them thinking.

So how about it, Bill and Tom? What's your side of the question? You have a sneaking sympathy for the husband in the case? Sure you have. You think how tired he is when he comes home at night, how fed up he is with the noise and hurry of the streets, how he longs for a little change and relaxation in front of his own fireside.

Yes, indeedy!

But did you ever stop to think that the wife might be wanting a little change and relaxation too?

That fireside, that domestic quiet, which is such a treat to the big boy after eight hours of scoot and twirl, is anything but a treat to her.

She's as fed up with it as he is with his office. Did that ever occur to you, Bill and Tom?

And now that it has occurred to you, what's your advice to Jeanne—or maybe to your own wife?

THE RICHES OF DREAMS -:- -:-

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Those who possess the gold of dreams are well-to-do in the most unlikely places. Dreams are the alchemy that transmutes realism into transcendent, lustrous imagery. Dreams lay a luminous world upon a plain one. Clothes a drab one in splendor. Sets gems in its solid sterling. Reveals the beauty and desirableness of a world that man has done a great deal to make dingy.

And dreams are found in the works of art and nature. In books—in pictures—in the thickly-written, silver-tongued, glowingly-colored pages of the mountain and the sea and the tree and the stream and the flower.

The lonely girl can laugh and be rich in a big town among the chimney pots and the fire escapes, with the Anthology of Poetry cradled on her nighty-clad knees. A silver book of dreams! The dark-blue sea with Conrad—and strange love! Adventure with beloved "Robert Louie." Hysterical and luscious laughter with Stephen Leacock. Thrills and tears, delight and romantic food, in Hugo, Sabatini, Walpole, Balzac, Eugene O'Neil, Flaubert, Masefield . . . Breast-deep in their pages that are perfumed with the mingled scents of violets and grain and the salt sea, her lover is Prince Charming! The stars are her jewels. The Moon her candle. The Milky Way is her sidewalk, and the two-thousand-year pine brushes her pillow with dreams.

The world belongs, in beauty, shows itself, glittering, to the girl who loves books, nature, pictures. Heaven is her playground, the earth her friend. Romance her destiny. —NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Setting the Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Which is proper in the morning, for the maid to say, "Good morning, Doctor," or "Good morning, Mrs. Jones," or should Dr. Jones or Mrs. Jones say good morning first?

2. Also when setting a table, should the salad fork or the meat fork be placed next to the plate? Or should the salad fork be placed on the outside? KITTY.

1. The master or mistress of the home should say "Good morning, Mary" to the maid, and then she answers that greeting.

And by the way, if the master of the house is a doctor, the maid should be taught not to say, "Good morning, Doctor," but "Good morning, Dr. Jones." We should on no occasion leave off the name after the title doctor.

2. The silverpieces are placed on the table in the order in which they are to be used. That is, so that the guest can start with the silverpiece farthest from the plate, and proceed toward the plate.

Let us suppose that you are setting your table for this menu: soup, roast, salad. (The dessert silver is brought in afterward.) On the right of the plate, farthest from the plate, is the soup spoon. Next to it, on the right, nearer the plate is the dinner knife, and if you place a salad knife with your salad fork for use in the salad course, the salad knife is placed nearest the plate on the right. Then on the left would be first and farthest from the plate, the dinner fork. Then, nearest the plate, the salad fork.

Who Pays for the Tickets?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A Young People's Group of which I am a member, is having what they call a "Stranger Dance," wherein each member is required to invite a friend of the opposite sex. I think that it is proper for me to pay the assessment although the young man whom I have invited wishes to do this. Under these circumstances, what is the correct thing to do? I. O.

You should carry out the spirit of your invitation by paying for both tickets. This would be especially true considering the general idea of this dance.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Keeping Wide Awake

An expert occasionally may drowse over a planned but unless he has fallen below par in a strenuous tournament, or is feeling below normal vigor, he seldom misses perfect play on difficult hands. The cards shown below were perfectly played, yielding two tricks more than ordinary players would win.

North (Y): ♠ [illegible] ♥ [illegible] ♦ [illegible] ♣ [illegible]

West (A): ♠ [illegible] ♥ [illegible] ♣ [illegible] ♦ A 7 5 4 3 2

East (B): ♠ [illegible] ♥ A Q J 10 [illegible] ♣ [illegible] ♦ [illegible]

South (Z): ♠ Q J 10 [illegible] ♥ [illegible] ♣ [illegible] ♦ [illegible]

Counting nine tricks in his own hand, Z made an opening bid of 3-Spades, with odds in his favor of 82 to 18 that his partner would hold at least one of the four missing aces. One ace in Y's hand insured game, unless spades broke very badly. A passed. Y had to bid 3-No Trump. B ventured 4-Hearts. Z bid 4-Spades. A bid 5-Hearts. Y and B passed.

Not dreaming that his opponents would dare bid a small slam, Z bid 5-Spades. A doubled. Y passed. B bid 6-Hearts. Of course Z doubled.

The opening lead was the K of spades. Dummy's ace won the trick. It appeared at first as if the contract must be beaten two tricks—losing one spade and two club tricks. The only chance for fulfillment of the contract was that dummy's diamonds might be established, provided neither adversary held more than four cards of that suit.

B did not waste an instant. He led A's Ace of diamonds, then led and ruffed a small one. Note that he trumped with his 8. That deuce in his own hand and the 7 in dummy meant a second entry in hearts. Had B trumped with his 2 he would have been defeated two tricks. He would have seen two established diamonds in dummy, but he would not have been able to utilize them.

Dummy won the fourth trick by overtaking B's lead of the 9 of hearts with the K. Another diamond was led and ruffed with the 10. Dummy was put in the lead by means of its 7 of hearts overtaking the declarer's 2. The fourth lead of diamonds was trumped with the J, clearing the diamond suit. The declarer led his Ace of hearts to pick up Y's last trump. Z discarded a spade and dummy's only remaining spade was discarded.

Eight straight tricks had been won by B. His ninth trick was made by a club lead from his own hand and won by dummy's Ace. Upon the two established diamonds in dummy B discarded his two losing clubs. He ruffed a club lead from dummy, thus winning his twelfth trick.

Of course Y upbraided his partner for having fairly pushed A-B into a winning small slam contract, but was he really to blame? Might not Z reasonably expect to win two tricks with his three quick tricks, even if he had been rather clearly informed by his partner that Y held none of the missing Aces? Such questions as this constantly arise at the table.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

To Get Rid of Your Asthma, Find and Remove Cause

Asthma is an uncomfortable disease, characterized by periodic attacks of shortness of breath. These attacks are accompanied by signs of irritation of the bronchial tubes, with expectoration of mucus.

Dr. Copeland

The accepted theory is that the symptoms are produced by a spasm which involves the muscles of the smaller bronchial tubes. To be frank about it, the causes of this spasm has furnished a real problem to the medical profession.

Asthmatic attacks may occur at any time from infancy to old age, but children and young adults furnish the largest number of cases. In certain families asthma may occur in each of several generations. A neurotic tendency is supposed to favor the development of the disease.

The exciting causes of asthma are many. Some cases, usually traced to pollen, may occur only in the summer months. Others, perhaps due to hidden infections in the throat or nasal sinuses, may occur only in winter. Sudden changes of temperature, cold winds, indigestion or some emotion may be followed by attacks.

You know that certain foods appear to be more or less poisonous to some persons. Such poisonous effects include asthmatic symptoms, but in a recent survey less than 50 per cent of cases were traced to such causes. Contacts with horse dandruff, feathers, cat hair, sachet powder, orris root or rice powder were found responsible for attacks in certain patients. In children articles of food, such as eggs, cereals and, in rare cases, cow's milk, have been found to be responsible in some cases.

In all cases of asthma the first requisite for successful treatment lies in discovering and removing abnormal conditions of the nose and throat. Centers of infection in the teeth must be found and eliminated. Brilliant results in children have followed the removal of diseased tonsils and adenoids.

Before the actual attack comes on there may be warning symptoms, such as indigestion, mental depression, chilliness or bronchitis, but sometimes the attack comes on without warning. During an attack there is great difficulty in breathing, with fear of suffocation, and the victim dare not lie down.

The attack may pass off in a short time, but it is likely to recur within a few hours; or there may be only a single attack, with no further trouble for several weeks or months.

In the treatment, as I have said, the cause must be sought and removed if possible. Certain tests, about which your doctor will tell you, will make it possible to find what particular article of food produces the attack, if it is due to food poisoning. This, of course, will be eliminated from the patient's diet. The evening meal of any sufferer from asthma should be light and easily digested.

Nasal catarrh and bronchitis should be treated, and undue nervous excitement, undue emotional experiences and over-fatigue must be avoided. Treatment with certain medicines and vaccines will do a lot in favorable cases.

During the violent stages of the attack, the burning of one of the various "asthma powders" may be remarkably helpful; but usually the services of a physician must be sought in order to cut short an attack.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Never use a depilatory under the arms the same day that a deoderant is applied. Let 24 hours elapse between the two treatments. Otherwise there may be a slight irritation of the skin surface.

No reason why the hair should not be shampooed every week. Usually it needs renovating that often. Fancy a pair of hands that went without scrubbing for seven days. How long a time should elapse between shampoos depends upon conditions, how much atmospheric dust the topcrest collects, how much oil sebaceous glands exude. One must use the old head.

Sculptured curls have come back with flying banners. Your hair dresser picks up the ragtags of your glorious crown, moistens them with curling fluid, arranges them in flat curlycues, pins firmly and turns on the hair dryer. A new trick is to have short hair along the line of the side parting, and to sculpture curl the little fringe. Very fancy and booful.

If your lipstick has a way of getting lost in the shopping bag, hobnobbing with the doorkey and all the other knick-knacks that a woman feels she must have with her, you can procure a charming powder and rouge compact which has the lipstick attached to it with a chain. There are other compacts with grooves in which the reliable lip brightener is packed away. Cunning things, these, and not expensive.

Sound teeth are dependent upon proper food. That's what the dentist says. What biters like and thrive on is orange juice. So lap it up every morning. Milk and lettuce are dentine builders. Once a day use dental floss between the teeth, being careful not to gouge into the gums.

Develop Caution in a Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

"I try to keep Philip from being afraid of things," said the young mother, "yet I can't let him go out into the world without instilling caution in him where caution will save him from physical or mental pain. Where can one draw the line?"

I think that to anyone who has conscientiously thought of this problem, it has seemed a complicated one, for fear has no place in a child's life, as such. Fear can make wrecks of perfectly normal healthy children; yet some measure of caution against danger must be a part of their training.

The point at which most of us fail in this situation is in preaching caution until it develops into a fear, without giving the child any idea of what to do as cautionary measures.

When you discover John on the garage roof, try saying: "Hold fast to the side when you climb down," rather than the mother-warning born of solicitude which makes you want to scream: "Oh, do be careful! You'll fall!"

In teaching your child the dangers of crossing busy thoroughfares, substitute "Wait until the light has turned green and you see that the cars have stopped in each direction, then cross the street," in place of your habitual: "Be careful when you cross the street, or you'll get run over." The latter scares a child without giving him anything specific to do about it. Therein lies the line between inculcating your child with fear or with sound caution.

A child who is constantly told by a fluttering mother to "be careful" when doing this or that or something else, is either going to override her warnings with a sheer recklessness, or be frightened to the extent that he will refuse to attempt anything by himself.

We grownups have learned what to do in the interest of our safety. Tell the child what to do. He doesn't know as yet.

Household Hints

If a pinch of baking soda is put into the water when cooking greens there will be no odor.

When cleaning grates a little vinegar added to the black lead instead of water will give a brilliant polish.

Salad oil is excellent for polishing ebony. Sprinkle a few drops on a warm flannel and rub well into the wood.

Bacon rind cut from rashers before cooking makes excellent stock for soups. Put the rind in a saucepan and cover with boiling water. Stand for five minutes and then drain off. Add cold water to the rind, bring to boil, and simmer for an hour. Half a pound of rind makes a quart of good stock.

LEVEY SHIFTS TO LEFT-HAND HITTING

AMONG THE MOST improved ball players in the big leagues this spring is a Pittsburgh boy, Jimmy Levey. He has quickly dispelled any doubt that may have existed as to whether he would again be the regular shortstop of the St. Louis Browns. There never was any question about Jimmy's field ability, and in speed he ranked with the fastest, but even in those departments he is surpassing expectations. The Pittsburgher appears to have a new interest in life. He is all business this year, takes his baseball duties more seriously, is first on the field for practice every day at West Palm Beach, and has buckled down to work in a fashion that gives promise of a brilliant season. He is covering more ground than ever around the shortfield.

Jimmy Levey

The one drawback in Levey's playing has been his hitting. He batted .243 in the eight games he played in the fall of 1930, and last year in 134 contests he dropped to .209. They changed his stance and his grip on the bat without success, but now Manager Bill Killefer believes he has solved the problem. Bill has resorted to the radical measure of turning Jimmy completely around and converting him from a righthand hitter into a left-side swinger.

NOT ONLY DOES Killefer figure that Levey will be able to hit better swinging lefthanded, but there is of course, the added advantage that Jimmy can make his speed count for more from that side of the plate, as with a shorter distance to run it will be possible for him to beat out many batted balls on which he would be retired hitting righthanded.

So far, the results have been most encouraging. The Pittsburgh lad jumped right in and made good at his new style, and Killefer says if he continues to hit at his present gait he will be moved higher in the batting order. For a time Jimmy was used as a lead-off man by reason of his ability to wait out the pitcher, but when his batting slumped he was dropped to No. 8 position. Now he is on his way up again, and all around appears to be headed for a big year.

A LOT OF sick pitchers out on the coast are wondering what Bill Terry would be doing if he had started training with the rest of the Giants. Under ordinary training conditions in the spring, the hurlers are from one to two weeks ahead of the batters, and in Terry's case the handicap was even greater, as he was a week late in reporting.

Yet in 15 games, Terry as pickled the old agate for 32 hits in 58 times at bat for an average of .552. Five times he has made three hits per game, and in one he made four. Only in one night game against Hollywood at San Diego did he fail to get at least one safety. In the Giants' two victories over the Pirates Thursday and yesterday he made four hits in seven times up for a mark of .571.

"WHEN I WAS in Pittsburgh," said Jewel Ens, "I used to say Terry was the best hitter in the National League, even before he led all the rest in the official averages. I dreaded seeing him go to the plate. And now that I'm with the Tigers I'm still being pursued by that same guy, Terry. In four games against us this spring he made eight hits in 16 times at bat. I'll be glad when the training season is over so that I'll not have to look at him busting up ball games any more. American League pitchers may not realize it, but not having to pitch to Bill is a break. He's just a great hitter, with or without practice."

Joe Dawson

JOE DAWSON, former Pirate pitcher who gave up aviation here to try a comeback this spring after an absence of almost three years from the game, is one of Manager Dutch Zwilling's hardest and most willing workers at the training camp of the Kansas City club in Orange, Tex.

Dawson, who did considerable training work here before reporting to the Blues, wasn't much overweight when he started practice in Texas. He plans to take off about five pounds more before opening day, and hasn't a doubt in the world that he'll pull a sufficiently good comeback to assure his being recalled to the Pittsburgh club in the fall.

IN A LETTER from Homestead, William Michaels writes: "I am a boy of 15 and an ardent Pirate fan. Why not have a rookies' day at Forbes Field? By this I mean to put on the field a team made up entirely of young players. I feel sure the game would be well attended, not only because of its novelty, but because of the general desire to see a young, peppy team.

A young team would provide color and dash. Even when they were winning last year the Pirates lacked the pep that always brings out the crowds. Below is a team that I think would not only be suitable, but very formidable: L. Waner, center field; Grosklos, second base; Jensen, left field; Piet, third base; Suhr, first base; Dugas, right field; Vaughan, shortstop; Finney, catcher; Wood, or one of the 1932 rookies who may be retained, pitcher."

LEONARD HAWKINS, captain of the West Virginia glove team, who won the light-heavyweight title at the first annual tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference here last week and was generally voted the best man in the tournament, has a college course that keeps him in condition. Hawkins is a student in the college of agriculture, in connection with which there is a state "practice" farm. Four o'clock every morning finds the popular boxing captain climbing out of bed and walking more than two miles to the farm to milk the cows.

THE NOTION THAT Notre Dame may be done producing great football teams for a time after being stopped by Southern California and Army last year is scoffed at by Coach Hunk Anderson. "The pressure of winning game after game is off, and we are beginning over again this year," he said.

"We have some good material on hand, and while I saw only three outstanding candidates on our freshman squad last fall we'll not lose heavily by graduation. Nick Lukatz will be ready, for one. Knute Rockne considered him one of the best prospects in years, and I'm depending on him to produce. Then we have Mike Koken and Brancheau. These boys should take care of the halfback positions, and Melinkovich and Leonard are on hand for fullback."

WHEN THE BASKETBALL schedule of the University of Pittsburgh for next season is made public within a week or 10 days it will be found to be considerably shorter than was the card for the campaign recently closed.

To be exact, the Panthers will be called upon to play nine games fewer than they went through last season. In the 1931-32 program the Blue and Gold passers took part in 31 contests, but on the 1932-33 schedule there will be only 22 events.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

THE LIST OF engagements will show only one brand-new opponent, though several other teams will be back on the slate after a lapse of a year or two. Incidentally, the new card will provide for two games each with the new members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference. But though the schedule may be cut down, the list of players available for Dr. H. C. Carlson, the able coach of the Panthers, will show no curtailment. The Pitt mentor will have a fine lot of material from which to select his team, with new men of the caliber of Whitey Wilson, Lefty Wadsworth, [illegible], Wilson Brooks and Billy Band coming on to work with the three veterans holding over, Don Smith, Don McCamant and Russ Ochsenhirt.

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—The Pittsburgh Pirates of 1932 will have a brilliant infield combination, one that is likely to feature its work with double-play killings.

This seems to be a foregone conclusion, at least from all appearances. In their play thus far on the exhibition tour, the Buc infielders have exhibited a decided tendency toward double killings.

The Corsairs were the victims of the breaks in both their contests with the New York Giants, but despite the two defeats they are quite pleased with the showing made in the games. Yesterday the Giants made it two in a row, winning, 2 to 1.

THREE-GAME SERIES

Ready to begin anew, the Pirates open a three-game series with the Detroit Tigers here today. On Tuesday they move to Santa Barbara, there to engage Los Angeles in a two-game series before tackling the Cubs of Chicago.

The Pirates-Giants series were advertised as exhibition games, yet were hardly that. It is quite doubtful if the brand of ball exhibited by the teams in the games here will be duplicated during the regular season.

The Giants are in mid-season form at present and the fact that they scored two victories over the Pirates does not detract from the play of the Pirates. The contests were nip-and-tuck affairs throughout.

Traynor, Vaughan, Piet and Suhr have been playing sensational ball for the Buccos to date, and in the games with the McGrawmen they seemed to be everywhere at once.

FIVE DOUBLE PLAYS

Five double plays in two games is something to talk about, and that is what the Pirates' inner-garden players reeled off against the New Yorkers.

Vaughan, the only recruit in the lineup, has displayed his ability at handling both the starting, middleman and finishing ends of the twinply killings.

Little need be said of the play of the other three members, aside from the fact that they have been going at a great clip and appear destined for a banner year. If Gibson switches his lineup and replaces Vaughan with Tommy Thevenow, it will not detract from the play, for Tommy is ranked as one of the best shortstops in the game.

Tony Piet came through in a sensational manner in the final clash with the Giants. Tony grabbed off 14 chances at second base without the semblance of an error. Several of the chances were catches made behind first-base territory.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: EXTRAORDINARY EXPLANATION OF A CRIME—The Crazy Ute is said to have been smitten with remorse for having murdered his own mother. As a self-imposed penance, the matricide spent 46 years of extreme privation about three miles above the Whiterocks Indian Agency in Uintah County, Utah. Through summer and winter, extreme heat and bitter cold, disdaining the protection of clothes or the shelter of a home, he sat and slept on cobble stones in the open, living upon the scraps of food afforded him by his brother Indians. Often after a night of bitter zero weather, his hair would freeze in a solid mass to the ground and chopping operations would have to be resorted to to free him. He was apparently as impervious to privations as he was to other perils to which he was exposed by the members of his tribe in an effort to rid the community of him. Death finally terminated this incredible existence after he had atoned for his heinous crime for 46 years. TRAVELED 100,000 MILES, BUT NEVER ON A TRAIN—Little Marian Stancombe, of Lawrence, Mass., has traveled more than 100,000 miles either by boat or automobile. These travels extended to all of the New England states, including New York state, and Canada as far east as Chipman, New Brunswick, and she never has ridden on either a train or a passenger bus.

W. P. I. A. L. CHAMPIONS FAVORED

Probable Lineup

Fifth Avenue		Braddock
Ruben	F	Kreiling
Pugliano	F	Krywicki
Garcia	C	Hale
Terlecki	G	Gostowski
Mahlmood	G	Buckley

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Greater Pittsburgh District's representative in the P. I. A. A. Western Regional final will be determined in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight when Braddock High, W. P. I. A. L. champion and representative of District 7, opposes Fifth Avenue High School, standard-bearer of District 8, as a result of being the highest ranking P. I. A. A. member in the City League.

Al Krywicki

Braddock, coached by Ham Hudson, having won its first W. P. I. A. L. crown as a result of its victory over New Kensington, now casts its eyes on the coveted state crown and if it succeeds in eliminating Fifth Avenue tonight it will advance to the Western Region final, scheduled next Wednesday in Sharon. Erie Strong Vincent, champion of District 10 and vanquisher of Dubois, District 9 titleholder, will be the opponent of the local survivor.

The winner of the Sharon embroglio will meet the Eastern Regional champion at State College, Pa., on April 2 for the state championship.

When the Braddock team takes the floor tonight three boys who won places on the first all-tournament team selected by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will be in the starting lineup. Elmer (Pickles) Kreiling, the outstanding star of the W. P. I. A. L. tournament, will appear at his usual place at forward. Al Kryzwicki, who almost stole the show in the latter stages of the tournament, will be his running mate. Tommy Hale, chosen as the best center in the W. P. I. A. L. series, will be at that position. The guard posts will be manned by Buckley and Gostowski.

Fifth Avenue, although it finished third in the City League competition, nevertheless has a team that is capable of giving the best of them a real battle.

Louis (Lemons) Pugliano, at forward, stands out with the best scorers in the City League ranks. Ruben will be at the other forward position. Garcia will play center and Mahlmood and Terlecki will be at guard. Mahlmood has played exceptionally good basketball for Fifth Avenue in recent contests and he will bear watching tonight.

Tonight's contest is the second P. I. A. A. affair for the Fifth boys. Last Saturday the Uptowners defeated Huntingdon, District 6 champion, 34-27.

SHADY SIDERS PLAY TONIGHT

The circuit-leading Shady Side Academy riders meet the cellar-holding Artillery riders tonight in a Pittsburgh Indoor Polo League match at the Hunt Armory in East Liberty. Shady Side has yet to meet defeat in the loop.

A public address system has been installed by armory officials for the purpose of assisting uninitiated spectators in following the contest. Lieut. O. A. Goldspinner will announce the plays and explain the details of the game. The encounter is due to start at 8:30.

Stadsvold May Get Crisler's Post at Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, March 26.—(AP)—University of Minnesota officials say Francis Stadsvold, basketball coach at West Virginia, is under consideration for the athletic directorship vacated by resignation of H. O. Crisler.

Stadsvold is a Minnesota alumnus and played basketball here 15 years ago. Crisler resigned to become head football coach at Princeton.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 26.—(AP)—Director of Athletics H. A. Stansbury of West Virginia University last night said he knew little of the report that Francis Stadsvold, Mountaineer basketball coach for the past 13 seasons, is under consideration for the post of director of athletics at the University of Minnesota.

GOLDEN, WOOD IN PLAYOFF

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—(AP)—Shooting consistently fine golf through the last two rounds, Johnny Golden, Noroton (Conn.) star, caught and tied Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., for first place in the North and South golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 286 yesterday.

It was thought probable they would split first and second money, totaling $2,500, although they will play 18 holes of medal play, starting at 10:30 this morning, marking the second successive year a playoff has been necessary in this tournament.

Joe Kirkwood, of New York, shot four steady rounds for 287 to capture $750 third money. Johnny Farrell and Wiffy Cox tied for fourth at 289, and drew $525 each. Gene Sarazen, of New York, finished in a tie at 292 with Bill Mehlhorn, of New York, for sixth place, and they divided $550.

Following are the scores of the money winners:

*Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn. [illegible]—286
*Craig Wood, Deal, N. J. [illegible]—286
Joe Kirkwood, New York [illegible]—287—$750

OWENS LEADS P.-O. TOURNEY

Owens, of Elba Recreation, went into the lead in the all-events competition of the Pennsylvania and Ohio duckpin tourney, at the Strand alleys, last night. He aggregated 1637. Brace, of the Barones, with two pins less, is in runner-up position.

Owens and Freund grabbed the lead in the doubles, dropping 1159 pins, while the same team rolled a new high double game, 442. Casino No. 2, of Wilkinsburg, had high team tally of 959. Medie is still at the top of the singles with 599, Lease's 565 being high yesterday, while Shearer's high single game of 270 stands. The scores:

Nine Boat Racers Barred; Charged With 'Luring'

MIAMI, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Nine outboard motor boat racers who competed for the Col. E. H. R. Green Trophy in the Biscayne Bay regatta here last week-end were suspended yesterday by the American Power Boat Association, pending investigation of charges that they purposely lured Charles H. Harrison, English driver, across the starting line ahead of the signal and thereby disqualified him.

The drivers are William Crawford, Jr., of New York, winner of the trophy; Travis Chestnut, of Jacksonville, Fla.; George Martin, of South Bend, Ind.; Guy P. Ellsworth, of Durham, N. C.; Clarence Collins, of Troy, N. Y.; Tommy Estlick, of Waukegan; H. H. Libby, of Kansas City; Horace Tennes, of Chicago, and Cal Leeth, of Cullman, Ala.

TWO SOCCER TILTS TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

Soccer fans in the district have two interesting games carded for their entertainment this afternoon. The feature contest finds the Pittsburgh Rovers and Reading clashing at Leslie Park while the other battle brings Union Switch and Signal against the Keystone Shaft outfit at Swissvale. Both games are being played in the Referees' Charity Cup series.

Tonight at the usual headquarters the referees will have their monthly meeting. Reports of committees and plans for the annual banquet will be taken up.

The presence of Reading at Leslie Park probably will draw a capacity crowd, seeing that Reading usually can provide plenty of real action. The Panhandle outfit is likely to give Leslie Park fans many thrills.

The game at Swissvale should be won by Switch. Keystone Shaft defeated National Tube in the last round, but the West Penn finalists should pass into the next round.

Wright, Frazier In Tennis Finale

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—William Wright, of Philadelphia, defending his national amateur singles court tennis title, yesterday advanced to the final of the championship tournament at the Racquet and Tennis Club by defeating Hewitt Morgan, of New York. Wright won three out of four sets, 5-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

Frank P. Frazier, of Boston, defeated James H. Van Alen, of New York, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3, and won the right to meet Wright in the final this afternoon.

TROPHIES AWARDED

MONTREAL, March 26.—(AP)—Award of the National Hockey League's three major trophies to Howie Morenz of Les Canadiens, Montreal; Joe Primeau of Toronto and Chuck Gardiner of the Chicago Blackhawks, has been announced.

Morenz was given the Dr. David Hart trophy as the player "most useful to his club," Primeau the Lady Byng trophy for exhibiting the "best type of sportsmanship combined with a high standard of playing ability," and Gardiner the Vezina trophy as the "best goalie" in the league.

The winners of the final National Hockey League playoff series will be awarded the Stanley Cup despite the N. H. L.'s refusal to meet the American League, William Foran, cup trustee, has announced.

NO A. L. SERIES

"There will be no series for the Stanley Cup with the American Hockey League this year," Foran said, "and there will be no interference with the present Stanley Cup series."

Foran said the trustees had declared the American League eligible for Stanley Cup series but that the present season had advanced so far it was impossible to arrange a playoff between the two leagues. He intimated, however, that if the National League declined to play the A. H. L. winners next season the cup would pass out of the National League's possession.

NEW SYSTEM AT N'CASTLE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 26.—The New Castle School Board by action at a special meeting this week abolished the athletic council that has ruled athletic affairs of the high school since 1924 and constituted in its place the senior high school athletic council which will have a somewhat different personnel than the former council.

The new council will mean a change in methods of handling the athletic affairs and will consist of the high school principal, the president of the High School Athletic Association, the president of the senior high school student council, three members of the high school alumni and three members of the School Board.

The coach and faculty manager were members of the former council but will only be ex-officio members of the new council.

The new organization will give the School Board more direct control over the actions of the council. The School Board also advanced the new council $3,500 to be used as the council sees fit, to be repaid to the general fund of the school district in a definite manner and as promptly as possible.

DRAKE SEEKS MIKE GETTO

By JESS CARVER

Mike Getto, who soon is to join the ranks of those who must ask permission before going out after the supper dishes are washed, can have the head football coaching job at Drake if he wants it. All Mike has to do is to put in an application.

Getto is first assistant coach at the University of Kansas, where he is getting about $1,65[illegible] per year less than some half-dozen of [illegible] head coaches scattered about the terrain. He rates very, very high at Kansas, both with the student body, the coaching staff and—most important of all—the athletic council and the faculty. The former Pitt all-America tackle, possibly the greatest tackle in Pitt history, not only is a fine coach but a great contact man, and spends much of his time chasing about the state addressing alumni chapters and Rotary clubs.

Mike Getto

COULD SUCCEED SOLEM

When Ossie Solem broke away from Drake a couple weeks ago to take the job at Iowa, efforts were made at once by influential Drakeans to secure Mike's services. The school itself did not approach him but when queried let it be known that if Mike wanted the job he would receive their most serious brand of consideration.

The big feller is marking time and so far has not opened negotiations with the Drake folks. Mike is satisfied at Kansas, was given a swell raise in [illegible] last fall and, according to his word to this [illegible], will [illegible] keep on leaving [illegible].

Mike is to be married early in the summer and will spend part of his honeymoon visiting at his home in Jeannette and renewing acquaintances in the city.

DEFENDING MAT CHAMPS COP

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 26.—(AP)—Oklahoma A. and M. and Iowa State College showed the way in the National Collegiate wrestling championship tournament here last night, each placing three grapplers in the semi-finals.

The defending title holders are still in the running. Hardie Lewis, 1[illegible]-pounder from Oklahoma University, won two matches by falls, one in 16 seconds. Robert Pearce, 123 pounds, of Oklahoma A. and M. won by default and Leroy McGuirk, 174-pounder from the Oklahoma school, won an overtime decision.

Schools that placed two men each in the semi-final matches were Oklahoma University, Southwestern State Teachers College of Stillwater, Okla.; Cornell College of Mt. Vernon, Ia.; Northwestern University, Iowa State Teachers College of Cedar Falls, Ia.; University of Michigan, United States Naval Academy, and Indiana University.

Single qualifiers remained from Illinois, Michigan State University of Missouri and Haverford.

YESTERDAY'S MUTUELS

AT JOHN'S PARK

[illegible]

GOOD BATTLES NEXT WEEK

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

From a week of comparative peace and quiet, fistically speaking, the Pittsburgh district jumps into a series of mitt shows next week that should shock the fans not a little.

Two outstanding cards have been arranged, one at the Kapphan Arena in Addison street, on Friday night, and the other at Jim McGirr's arena in McKeesport, on Thursday.

McGirr offers a "natural" between Willie Davies, the daddy of the little fellows ranging from flyweights to bantams around here, and young Tony Marino of Duquesne. It will be a test between a near champion who has passed his peak and a youngster on the way up and should prove highly interesting.

BIG DOUBLE WINDUP

With Apples Meyers on the job as the new matchmaker of the Kapphan Arena, that place stages the most attractive schedule of bouts in its brief history, with Joey LaGrey, formerly of Johnstown and McKeesport, now a big-time middleweight in New York, boxing Gus Salerno, of Los Angeles, in the main event and Tiger Joe West, local middleweight, against Angel Clivilie, Porto Rican Negro puncher who boasts a great knockout record, in another 10-rounder, with two six-rounders filling out the bill.

The Motor Square show, on Monday, the last in the East End arena until April 11, lacks the appeal of these two rival offerings. Eddie Lord, of Hartford, Conn., who finished second to Battling Gizzy in the same ring recently, is being brought back for the main bout against Charley Baxter of McKees Rocks, hardly a match calculated to pack the largest auditorium in town.

GARDEN CARD COMPLETE

The Garden has completed its preliminary card with the signing of Lloyd Clements of Jeannette to box Walter Ketchel, East End middleweight, in the second bout. Lee Sala, of Donora and Young Rudy of Charleroi box the eight-round semi-final and Harry Price of McKeesport and Mickey O'Brien, of Braddock are in the opener.

Young Joe Walcott, Washington (Pa.) Negro welterweight and Joey Bazzone of McKeesport will box the semi-final at McKeesport.

Also scheduled next week is the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior tournament at the Keystone A. C., running throughout the last four nights.

Navy Sabre Team Unseats Columbia

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Columbia's sabre team, intercollegiate champion for the past four years, was dethroned by the Navy in the final round-robin of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association sabre competition here last night.

Columbia defeated Navy in the final round-robin, but lost the title on the basis of touches. Columbia and Navy each finished with two victories and one defeat, but Navy's sabre stars were touched only 42 times to 44 for Columbia in the three matches. Army finished third in the final sabre standing and Yale fourth.

SAM PARKS, JR., TURNS PRO

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Sam Parks, Jr., of the Highland Country Club, has quit amateur golfdom to join the paid brigade. He has been signed as professional at the Summit Golf Club, near Uniontown, and is to appear ready for work on April 15 when the mountain course is to be thrown open for another season's play.

Sam Parks, Jr.

Parks' career has been a steady climb in amateur ranks until today unquestionably he is one of the top-ranking golfers in the East. It had been thought, with a little more experience, he might have made good in a big way in the national amateur, but all such hopes now may be sidetracked. Sam will be a big boost to pro ranks, but, with the new ruling of the P. G. A. in effect, which calls for all members to serve a bench apprenticeship, his scope may be more or less limited.

Parks won his first title in 1926, when he defeated a clubmate, Knox Young, Jr., in the final West Penn junior competition. He had been beaten in the final by the bitterest opponent of his career, Fred Brand, Jr., in 1925, and lost to the same youngster again in 1927 in the final. In 1930 he represented Pitt in the national intercollegiates at Oakmont, was leader for the first half of the 36-hole grind, qualified within three strokes of the co-medalists, George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, and Larry Moller, of Notre Dame and advanced to the quarter-finals, a greater distance than any other local entry, where he was eliminated by Dunlap. He also lost to Dunlap last year in the same tourney. He has qualified for the national amateur and open championships, also, although he has not made great headway in either competition, and has won innumerable honor tourneys.

Although Pitt's team didn't go so hot last season, Parks, as captain, was undefeated in his own matches.

COLLEGE SWIM MARKS FALL

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 26.—(AP)—Stanford University assumed the lead in preliminaries of the national collegiate swimming meet last night by qualifying eight men for tonight's finals.

Michigan's squad, defending its title in the home pool, qualified six. Northwestern and Princeton each qualified four, Navy three and Minnesota and Rutgers, two each.

One man qualified for the final from Southern California, California, Nebraska, Columbia, Ohio State, Cincinnati University and Illinois.

Austin Clapp, Stanford, after setting a new American record of 20:03.1 for the 1,500-meter swim, won his semi-final heat in the 440-yard swim and also qualified for the final of the 220-yard free style.

Johnny Schmieler, Michigan ace, set new meet records for the 200-yard breast stroke and 220-yard free style. His time for the breast stroke was 2:32.8 and for the 220-yard swim was 2:15.6.

A. M. A. A. A. U. records were broken by star district natators at the Homestead Library pool, while Mae Cutnell, local Olympic prospect, established a new 150-yard backstroke swim mark in the Keystone Athletic Club tank last night.

Miss Cutnell lowered the time set by Eleanor Smith, of Columbus, in 1918, when she clipped 11 seconds from the record in being clocked for the distance at 2:07. She was paced by E. R. Wisner, Lehigh University ace. Her successful try for the record featured a mixed club meet of the K. A. C., in which Wisner gave a 200-yard free style performance, and exhibitions at 100 yards by Joe Goldfarb, of Fifth Avenue High, and Frank Knebeck, of K. A. C., were staged.

The Homestead Library star, Albert Labedda, took advantage of his home waters to create a new record for the 500-yard A. M. A. A. A. U. test, swimming the distance in 6:10. The former record was set by Allan Cross, of Erie, in 1927.

Mary Hager clipped 1:13 from the aforesaid Mae Cutnell's record in the 500-yard junior free style when she finished in 7:39 2-5.

Anna May Gorman chopped a second from the former record in her 100-yard backstroke time trial, while in the 220-yard free style trial Lenora Kight lowered her own mark by a second.

DETROIT, March 26.—Keystone A. C. teams, of Pittsburgh, rolling in the annual American Bowling Congress tourney here last night were unable to muster enough wood to get in the prize winning list.

The nearest approach was the 2627 of No. 1, which had games of 860, 926 and 841. The No. 2 team totaled 2455, with games of 850, 832 and 773. The scores:

Tonight Pittsburgh will be represented by three teams, the Deers, Iroquois and Perry Colts.

The expected shuffle of the team leaders did not materialize. Thirty out-of-town teams failed to cause the leaders any trouble.

Grand Five, Youngstown, O., registered 2773 on games of 954, 844 and 975 to lead the parade. Jimmy Smith, for 20 years a headliner, performed with the Youngstown quintet, but was unable to give the big crowd any thrills. Smith counted 551 on games of 196, 176 and 179. Mike Mauser, last year's all-events champion, totaled only 554.

The Ebonite Ball five, of Covington, Ky., went into second place in the five-men event with a score of 2946.

VANITIES BEGIN PLAY TODAY

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., March 26.—The Pittsburgh Goldenson Vanities, the Dayton Keefer-Allens and the Cleveland Aces loom as the most formidable foes of the Leavittsburg A. C., defending champion, in today's battles in the second annual Ohio-Pennsylvania and West Virginia girls' basketball tournament.

Leavittsburg, which drew a first round bye, easily downed the Salem Pennzips 45 to 12 in the first second round clash, while the Dayton quintet had easy sailing in defeating the Beach City Ex-Highs 42 to 6 in the first round. The Cleveland Aces and the Pittsburgh Vanities will go into action today.

Victim Fights Off Attack of Robber

Homer D. Butts, Cambridge apartments, 5646 Hobart street, was struck on the head with a revolver when he resisted a thug who attempted to rob him in front of his home last night. The bandit fled without loot when Butts fought and shouted for help. Butts was about to enter his automobile when the man approached him.

LISTENING IN

—With the Radio Editor—

SOUND OF A TRUMPET brings to WCAE listeners at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow morning the first note in the public celebration of Easter.

The Sunrise Prayer Service, to be held on Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park, will be broadcast by WCAE with Leland Becraft announcing. More than 20,000 men, women and children are expected to attend, and their combined voices will be carried in song through the WCAE microphones. The Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Chorus of 150 voices will sing several numbers and the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, of the First Baptist Church, will deliver the Easter address.

Dr. Petty

The program has been arranged through the efforts of co-operating young people's religious organizations.

The Prince of Wales will be heard in a trans-Atlantic broadcast on April 23, birthday of William Shakespeare. The heir to the British throne will speak at the opening of the Shakespearean Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon in a program on an NBC network from 9:15 to 9:35 a. m.

One of the biggest sponsored coast-to-coast broadcasts in radio history will celebrate the General Motors national exhibits in 55 cities, including Pittsburgh, on Monday, April 4. It will be heard over WCAE. Efforts are being made to secure S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel as master of ceremonies for the program, in which orchestras of Paul Whiteman and Erno Rapee will take part. Among the celebrated artists to be heard are Aileen Stanley, Countess Olga Albani, Welcome Lewis, Mildred Bailey, the Revelers, Ohman and Arden, the Rondoliers, Melody Songsmiths and the King's Jesters. Graham McNamee, John S. Young, Howard Petrie, James Wallington and Norman Sweetser will do the announcing.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the "first lady of the stage," comes before the WCAE microphone at 6 o'clock Monday night to be interviewed by George Seibel, dramatic editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Miss Colt will be in Pittsburgh with Rudy Vallee in the "Scandals."

SEEK 2 IN VOTE QUIZ ATTACK

Arrests were expected today as the result of an attack on special investigators for the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes in Homestead yesterday.

The investigators, Robert Qualters, 1516 Douglass street, McKeesport, and Hugh White, Eleventh avenue, Homestead, were attacked leaving a house at City Farm lane and Elm street, Homestead, yesterday, where they were checking election records. Qualters was severely beaten.

Leo A. Riordan, chief investigator of the county claims department, said informations would be made before Alderman Jacob Yeager against two men known to have taken part in the attack.

A force of 75 investigators has been working more than a week making a physical check of taxables ordered several weeks ago by the County Commissioners as part of a campaign to purge the lists of "phantom" voters.

BLAST AND FIRE DAMAGE HOME

Investigation was being made today by Wilkinsburg firemen of a gas blast followed by fire which damaged a two-story brick duplex at 1739 Laketon road, Wilkinsburg, shortly before last midnight.

Neighbors told firemen they heard a muffled explosion in the basement a few minutes before smoke began pouring from the windows. Firemen were unable to enter the gas-filled cellar until gas lines were closed.

The family of Arnold Hobbs, which occupies the first-floor apartment, had been absent several days, neighbors said. Damage was estimated at $1,000 by Fire Chief Samuel Jeffries, of Wilkinsburg.

Mexico to Execute 10 More Bandits

MEXICO CITY, March 26—(Universal)—Ten more members of the bandit gang that derailed and attacked an international express train out of Laredo, Tex., on Sunday, were captured on the prairie of the State of Queretaro.

Seventeen members of the band were executed by firing squads yesterday at three jails near Mariscala, Guanajuato, scene of the attack. The 10 others captured yesterday will face a firing squad shortly.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

Here's a smart way to use one of the lovely new warm weather prints, whether it be cotton or silk. The pointed details are interesting and extremely flattering to the figure. We made this frock up in shantung, a tiny geometric red print on a beige ground, and it was lovely worn with a red straw hat, red leather belt and handbag. Equally suitable fabrics are linen, dimity, percale, broadcloth, mesh or wash wash silk.

Pattern 2130 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires $3\frac{1}{4}$ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

SEND FOR THE SPRING FASHION CATALOG. This beautiful, colorful book offers 32 pages of chic, authentic Anne Adams styles for adults and children. The newest frocks for afternoon, evening and sports wear, exquisite lingerie, attractive house dresses and adorable kiddie models are featured — ll personally chosen by Anne Adams and all fashionable, practical, easy and inexpensive to make. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

Lily Lou and Her Baby Are Sent Back to New York By Nahlman

CHAPTER XLV.

Madame Nahlman's husband turned up. Nahlman had talked about him, dwelling upon his beauty, his wit, his passion for the ladies, with her usual frankness. But she had also talked about his three predecessors with the same gusto and frankness. Lily Lou had relegated them all to a shadowy past. And here he was, in the flesh.

He was quite young very English. He spoke in a high affected voice twisted his fair waxed moustache. Talked about art, life philosophy. Lily Lou had the feeling that he was not quite the authority that he made himself out to be. He paid extravagant compliments to his wife proclaimed himself her slave her greatest admirer.

Madame Nahlman became another being. She primped, she preened, adopted her grand opera manner.

One night Lily Lou surprised Mr Rodney Horton-Hale kissing one of the younger maids. There was something furtive and unwholesome about it. It sickened her. And now that she had surprised him in that he became bolder in his advances towards her.

Nahlman began to twit her about Blumenthal. "If you let men alone for the next five years you'll be better off," she said bluntly. "You've had your lesson. For God's sake profit by it!"

LILY LOU DISMISSED

Lily Lou was hurt, and she could not help being angry. It certainly wasn't her fault that Nahlman's husband looked at her. She began to treat him with something like rudeness.

Two days later Madame Nahlman said:

"The bubchen annoys Rodney. The English are so averse to anything natural, that a baby in the house—"

"Oh!" Lily Lou said. "Oh!"

"So, since I have that big class coming up and won't have any real time to coach you anyway, it seems to me that you might as well go back to New York. There isn't a thing for you at the opera here this summer. Nothing but Americans here in summer anyway. So you go on back to New York, and later, when you're a little better prepared, I'll plan something worth while. You know you can trust me for that, Lily?"

"Oh—of course!"

But she felt that Nahlman had struck her.

"Go back to Gwin for a while."

"Yes," Lily Lou promised.

She let them plan. Watched Susanne Coin packing. Realized that she was adrift again. Watched, with a curious, detached interest, as the bonne wept over the baby. "He has been like a son to me, Madame. Like my own child. And now you take him to the ocean, the deep ocean, where ships sink, and there are storms. He, that has been raised so safely, away from oceans."

UNCOMFORTABLE QUARTERS

And her own mind went racing ahead, back across the sea, to New York, to face the people she had known, with the Bubchen in her arms. She'd probably have to board him somewhere, she'd never be able to earn enough to hire a nurse. It had been so easy here . . . her comfortable rooms, the devoted bonne, everyone's natural acceptance of her as Madame Lansing. . . . .

She thought of Gwin. What would he think of her now? Of her small triumph in Carmen, and two critics writing that her voice gave promise of being the musical find of the year . . . And now the year was over.

Madame Nahlman came to

> Synopsis
>
> Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. Later Lily Lou explains her circumstances to the singer, expecting the offer to be withdrawn. She is invited to take the trip regardless and decides to do so. They go to England first and then to France. They go to Vienna, where Lily Lou becomes ill. She becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera. She sings well and wins much praise.

the room to bid her goodbye. Kissed her on both cheeks. Wept.

"I have left all the arranging to Rodney," she said. "He is so much cleverer at business affairs than I."

Rodney, it appeared, was not only clever but economical. There was no Acquitania, first cabin, for this crossing. A Franch cabin ship, with Lily Lou's stateroom far below.

HELPED BY STEWARD

It was July, and one of the hottest days in the year. The Rochambeau developed engine trouble the last minute and lay at her berth over night. Most of the passengers had been apprised of the delay in advance and did not board the steamer until late at night, but Lily Lou did not know. She arrived on scheduled time, spent miserable, sticky hours in her tiny cabin below decks. The porthole was open, but no breeze stirred.

The bubchen protested, wailed at the top of his excellent lungs. When morning came, and the ship was underway with a chill wind blowing from the channel, Lily Lou was worn out, and so was the buchen.

She had not realized how hard it would be. The bonne had taken full care of him. Now she was alone. She was nervous and awkward. "Such a good baby," everyone had always said. It must have been something in the bonne's management, or perhaps it was the food . . .

The steward, who told her at once that he was a father himself, prepared the bottles. He would not hear of Lily Lou doing it herself. He arrived at all hours of the day and night, entering and knocking simultaneously, backing out, if his entrance seemed inopportune, with a murmured, "Pardon, Madame—"

She couldn't take the bubchen to the dining room, and she couldn't leave without him. She got one meal the first day, and one tray from the friendly steward, and that night, after the buchen was safely asleep she buttoned herself into her heavy coat, and went up to walk the deck.

MEETS OLD FRIEND

Something about the limping gait of a small man who paced the deck slowly, ahead of her, arrested her attention. She followed, watching, afraid to believe her eyes. If it only were . . . but it couldn't be! And yet it was! It was!

"Tony!" she cried. "Tony Schiarilli! Whatever are you doing here! Oh, I'm so glad—so awfully glad to see you!"

His lined face lit up. "Lily Lou! It's you!"

"Yes. Oh Tony—I'm so GLAD!"

She kissed him heartily. She was so glad to see him. But he flushed awkwardly, and seemed embarrassed, so that she wished she hadn't. She thought, "I've been with Nita Nahlman so long I'm beginning to act like her!"

But she clung to his arm. They walked the deck, then found a sheltered corner, and he spread blankets and rolled her up snugly.

"Tell me every single thing that has happened since I left New York!"

He did not have very much news. He had just spent six weeks abroad. Oh, doing nothing particular. Just traveling around, but he had heard that she sang in Paris—

"Yes. The other girl had to break a leg, or an ankle, rather, so that I could get the chance."

"I heard you were a lovely Micaela. In perfect voice."

"Tony, you DIDN'T hear that? Who told you?"

"A man I know. A producer, who may do something for me."

"You're going to have your chance! To-ny!"

"Yes. A fiddle in the orchestra at the Metropolitan to start. After that, concert master, director, composer, and you, Lily Lou, singing in the title role!"

He smiled, and she smiled, a little wistfully.

"I don't think my chance will come that soon."

He laughed. One of his rare, hearty laughs. "But you think mine will?"

She squeezed his hand. "I'm sure of it, Tony."

The staunch Rochambeau made her way gallantly, surely over the waves. The wind blew strongly, freshly, from the salty sea.

He began to sing softly, beating time gently with his pencil . . . "You like it? The aria . . . It is from my opera, Balkis. And Lily Lou, one day you will sing it . . . yes—no one else. Listen again . . ."

"Pardon Madame," the steward said. His white coat was like a signal in the darkness near the boat rail. "The baby, he sings, too. He wants that his mama—"

Lily Lou sprang to her feet. "Oh! I forgot—"

She ran into the cabin, clattered down the stairs, down the flights and flights of stairs, to the baby.

"Bubchen darling! Did he get forgotten! The poor, precious bubchen! Mother's here now, darling—don't cry. See! It's mother."

And on the deck Tony Schiarilli stood where she had left him holding onto the rail.

"My damn lame leg," he told the steward.

"These new mammas are forget sometimes." And then, every inch the competent French steward, he noticed that the lame gentleman was not quite himself.

"The ship, she rock too much. Heh? Eh bein, monsieur—you take my arm!"

Lily Lou was surprised when she met Tony Schiarilli.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham Has Chance to Adopt Favorite Martyr Role

No sooner had I put my ridiculous query to my mother-in-law, "Is the baby here?" than I realized from the grim look which came over her face that I had made what might be designated as a "social error." I do not think anything could have banished my hysteria as quickly as that forbidding look upon the face of Dicky's captious mother.

"What in the name of tunket is possessing you, Margaret?" she asked. "Is the baby here?" Forsooth! Where did you imagine she would be except in this room, unless, indeed, I chose to take her in my own. Whenever I am put in charge of blessed little Faith," she waved a majestic hand toward our little Princess asleep in her crib—"I am not in the habit of shirking my duty—and my privilege—and depositing her in some other room as soon as her nurse's back is turned."

A GOOD TONIC

"Oh, I know that Mother," I said hastily, but she paid no more attention to my protests that she would have to Katie's explanation of some blunder.

"Of course I realize," she added, her body stiffening into what Dicky calls the "martyr-tied-to-the-stake-pose," and her voice taking on a mournful cadence, "that if Mrs. Bickett, or indeed, any other professional nurse were in charge of this baby this morning you wouldn't dare to insult her by asking her where the baby was."

Through my dazed brain danced the priceless refrain of an old song: "You wouldn't dare insult me sir, if Jack were only here." But needless to say I did not hum it. Instead, I cast about frantically for some method of placating my irate mother-in-law, conscious at the same time that her captiousness had been the best possible tonic she could have given me.

WANTS EXPLANATION

Then, like a searchlight illuminating a darkened field, I knew a sure method of calming down my mother-in-law. Purposely we had kept from her as much as possible of the terrifying activities of the Chinese. But I knew how keen was her interest in anything melodramatic, and, realizing that it no longer would be possible to keep her in ignorance of the menace which hung over the household, I made my voice heavy with meaning as I answered her.

"Mother dear, if you knew what was happening, you would understand why I rushed in like this just now. I would have done the same thing if all the physicians and nurses in Christendom were in attendance upon Faith. You have no conception of how frightened I am this morning."

"What do you mean?" she asked eagerly. "What has happened?"

"I'm afraid Dicky will be terribly angry at me if I tell you," I said. "He's been so insistent that you should not be bothered."

"I am an old woman, I grant you," she said in her very best manner, "but I am not yet senile though Richard and you may consider me so."

"Never, Mother," I interposed emphatically, but she made no sign that she had heard me.

"However," she said grandiosely, "I refuse to be relegated to the ranks of the mentally unfit. Richard is my son and you my daughter—I will not say 'in-law,' for, to do you justice, you have been as near to me as my own flesh and blood—and you owe me obedience. I command you to tell me what has frightened you. If Richard is angry at you send him to me. I will deal with him in a manner he will not forget. Now sit down and tell me what is wrong."

MOTHER ALARMED

I wondered whimsically just what would be her method of dealing with a displeased boy. Would she whip him, or shut him in a dark closet? She had looked fully capable of either method of punishment when she was announcing her intention of dealing with her son.

"Mother," I said slowly, tensely, feeling as I spoke that the words were no mockery, "the children are in danger from those Chinese. I will come back and tell you about it just as soon as I have satisfied myself that Junior and Roderick are with my father."

"What Chinese?" she demanded, then, as her alarm vanquished her curiosity, she sprang to her feet.

"Run quickly," she commanded, and bring Richard Second and Roderick here. I want to see with my own eyes that they are safe."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

It is not uncommon for the mothers and fathers of members to drop in on the Saturday morning meetings and without exception, they go away with a feeling of satisfaction in the fact that their boys and girls are not only off the street but are being given the advantage of actual training that inspires loyalty, right living and real comradeship.

The pledge of the club, repeated in unison at the opening of every meeting, includes not only the above requirements, but closes with a pledge for allegiance to the flag of our country. One mother, coming out of the South Hills chapter meeting—one of the largest of the group of 17—said to the writer:

"If I have my way my boy will never miss one of these meetings. Their wholesome influence can do nothing but good and the entertainment they get is always wholesome and inspiring. Every mother who has a little boy or girl should have them join the Junior Komic Club. The youngsters in this chapter surely have a good time at every meeting. My boy looks forward throughout the entire week for the coming Saturday meeting. The Sun-Telegraph and Warner Theaters are to be congratulated for the real service they are giving the youth of Pittsburgh."

AMBRIDGE CHAPTER

The Ambridge Theater held its first Junior Komic Club meeting this morning. The children of Ambridge and vicinity had been meeting at the Prince Theater, but following last Saturday's meeting the club moved into its new home and Manager Dick Brown, of the Ambridge Theater, was on hand early to greet his little patrons.

And what a gala array of performers and entertainment he had for them. Myrna Heberling, who acted as Mistress of ceremonies last week, made a very pretty speech thanking Mr. Anderson, the former manager of the Prince Theater, for all the good times he had given the boys and girls and again wished him success at his new theater, the Library, at Warren, Pa.

ENRIGHT PROGRAM

The youngsters at the Enright chapter this morning kept Ruthie Miller and Dolly Fritz busy explaining some of the more difficult dance steps that they are teaching the children, and telling them how many hours of training the dancing girls of the Stanley Theater practice each day.

Remember, too, that the Supreme Grand Jester of your club has made "Uncle Bob and Betty" those two famous characters who read you the Sun-Telegraph comics over Radio Station WCAE every Tuesday and Thursday night at 6 o'clock and on Sunday at 12:30 noon, honorary members of the Junior Komic Club. Be sure to listen to them tomorrow when they read for you the big comic section that you'll get with your Sunday Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

COLDS

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours . . . what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.

It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Spare Real Estate!

Money for the Support of the Needy Should Be Collected From Other Sources—Comment on Local News

The County Poor Board is found to have the authority to issue $12,000,000 of bonds, and this is being hailed as a godsend that will enable the board to take care of the unemployed for months. It is gratifying, to be sure, that such resources are still available, but the bonds should not be issued except as a last resort, because they will necessitate an increase in the real estate tax.

Real estate taxes are already intolerably high, and, if the county tax rate is raised, a still larger number of property owners, unable to bear the burden, will not pay the taxes, but will let their property be seized. It is for this reason that the state, with more varied powers of taxation, should come to the rescue.

In a sheaf of news items issued yesterday by the Pittsburgh office of the Department of Commerce was a significant report from the American consul at Naples. He said the municipal government, which had been deriving revenue through a tax on street signs, recently announced an increase in the tax, with the result that such signs promptly disappeared from the streets. The goose that laid the golden egg was killed.

There is a lesson in the experience of Naples for our city and county authorities. Instead of piling up taxes on real estate let them use all the influence they can bring to bear to get the Legislature into special session to devise a taxation program that will provide for the relief of the unemployed without confiscating the homes of small property owners. Let the goose that lays our municipal golden egg be spared.

Pending the solution of the tax problem, every effort should be made to relieve the destitute through the Harris "adopt-a-family" plan. It is expected, of course, that those with the means will "adopt" not just one but a number of families. The committee of business men who are backing the movement are of a caliber that inspires respect.

The system under which citizens of Pennsylvania are sometimes imprisoned for non-payment of taxes is of dubious propriety at best. Two Western Pennsylvania cases reported yesterday present it in a ridiculous light. Bedford County has had to pay $39 for the support of a man jailed for inability to pay $6.09 in taxes. Somerset County has been called upon to support a tax prisoner, in jail for non-payment of $5.25, and his destitute family as well.

*Radio has brought many impressive services be*fore the public, but few more impressive than the sunrise prayer service to be held in commemoration of the Resurrection at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning on Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park. Preparations have been made for a congregation of 20,000. The service will be broadcast by WCAE, beginning at 6:45 a. m.

*To many the most interesting feature of the Sun*day Sun-Telegraph probably will be the opening installment of the life story of Father Coughlin, the famous radio priest. He is the son of an Erie (Pa.) baker, and his biography is as entertaining as first class fiction.

Ann Harding and Harry Bannister, both former members of a Pittsburgh stock company, are seeking a divorce. Her fame as an actress, she says, has caused him to lose his identity and become known as "Ann Harding's husband," and she loves him too well to permit that to continue. Apparently, however, she does not love him well enough to give up her own career.

Ann Harding has found that marriage and a career are incompatible. To the question, "Do you think marriage and a career are compatible?" 74 per cent of the girl students at Bryn Mawr have answered "Yes." Their answers to 26 intimate personal questions will be found tomorrow in the American Weekly, which is distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

The Gravure Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph will present an exquisite Easter picture—a photograph of the boy choir of Calvary Episcopal Church. On the "Remember?" page will be found a striking picture of Pittsburgh politicians at the Republican national convention of 1912. There is another page of photographs of interesting babies, too.

Hoover's New Drive Will Not Aid Our Jobless

Instead of co-operating with the Congress to provide work for 8,000,000 Americans out of work, the Hoover administration fatuously clings to its three-point program of financing the financiers, reimbursing the speculators and involving the United States in foreign political entanglements.

In the midst of unprecedented depression at home and wars and rumor of wars abroad, the Hoover administration reopens its drive to plunge this country into the League of Nations through the trap door of the League Court.

In spite of the inability of the League to prevent war in the Far East, and the inability of the League Court to render an advisory opinion dictated by justice, Secretary Stimson writes to Senator Borah that he is more convinced than ever that the United States should join the court and take a part in its future growth.

Of course Mr. Stimson is of this opinion. If he were not, he would not be Mr. Hoover's Secretary of State, because Mr. Hoover is an internationalist and this is the viewpoint of the internationalists.

Mr. Hoover is the same Wilson internationalist now that he was when Mr. Wilson was trying to drag this country into the League of Nations through the front door of the League covenant.

Then Mr. Hoover was for ratifying the League covenant without reservations, which would have made this country an unconditional member of the League of Nations.

Now Mr. Hoover is in favor of ratifying the League Court protocol with reservations revised by the League, which would make this country a member of the League Court on the League's terms.

If the Hoover administration gets the permission of the Senate to take this country into the League Court now, Mr. Hoover will not wait for the Senate's permission to take this country into the League of Nations at the first opportunity.

Life's Traffic Lights

The trouble with most of us in love, in politics, in finance—in most of the things in this world—is that we don't obey the traffic lights. We never know when to STOP! We never know when we've got ENOUGH!

* * *

Enough money, enough love, enough fame, enough to eat, enough to drink, enough whoopee! We are all "Oliver Twists," continually demanding "MORE."

* * *

Most women never know when they've got enough clothes—and lots never know when they've got enough wedding-rings or ex-husbands.

Some men go to pieces and die before they have ever really LIVED, because they won't heed the traffic signals and stop working and piling up the dollars. And others go to pieces and pop off before their time, because they won't stop playing and give their tired old heart-valves a rest.

* * *

A kiss or a political office can last just a little bit too long, and thereby turn a public official or a woman from an idol into a pest!

* * *

No woman on earth ever got enough love, enough attention or enough admiration. There ISN'T that much in all the world!

* * *

You can feed a woman flattery from noon until midnight, and the next morning, you'll have to begin ladling out the applesauce all over again or be accused of "neglecting" her.

Many a man's love has been strangled to death by a woman's persistence in hanging around his neck and sighing for "more love," more kisses, more money or more of his time. * * *

A woman just can't see a traffic light! She never knows when to STOP—when to stop talking, when to stop arguing, when to stop coaxing or when to LET GO! She will vow never to speak to a man again—and then call him up next morning, just to tell him that she meant it." A woman's "good-bye" always means "au revoir!" * * *

If a man only knew when he had enough money, enough liquor or enough women in his life; and a woman only knew when she's had enough romance, enough popularity and enough dalliance, most of the heartaches, headaches and heartbreaks in this world would be avoided.

* * *

Because, the secret of happiness and of success in everything, from work and love to after-dinner speaking, consists in watching the traffic signals—and knowing when to STOP!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 26—Most people enjoy themselves at the theater. But not I. I'm just here to be stepped on or glared at. That baby, for instance, just passing, wears hobnails tonight in my honor. And the fidgety lady on the left awaits a tense moment to drop something.

Such as a candy box upside down or half-eaten orange. If it's candy I hope it's in tinfoil. You can sneak that kind in your pocket and it will keep. Why should I sit stiff as a poker and timid as a mouse, never laughing out loud? Other folk are having a gay time. Old Death's Head at the feast!

Rather a good seat, too—third row fifth from the middle aisle. But I'm only here temporarily. The usher will be here soon, as usual, demand the coupons, find I'm in the wrong pew and lead me, red-faced, to the other side of the house. I'd like to drop something in that ear trumpet before I go.

With 6,000,000 people in New York I must of course sit in front of a lady who saw the show at Atlantic City. No, she's seen it twice. Once at rehearsal and once at Atlantic City. I'm glad that's ironed out. I might have gone on thinking she only saw it at Atlantic City.

Her husband is a friend of the producer. Isn't that perfectly ducky? He also backed a musical show once and it got grand notices but he aroused the ire of ticket agencies. And it closed in two nights. Still the theater is just a hobby. He's in commerce really. And raises ire on the side.

George Jean Nathan always comes early, folds his coat neatly and sits on it. I must make a note to give neatness a twirl. I've taken up almost everything else, except glass ball shooting. Hark! the angel's wife is in again. Her husband knows John Ringling.

Well, so do I. That makes us fellow Moose. We should know each other better. How about taking me to lunch some day? You're in trade but I'm democratic. I even speak to Courtney Ryley Cooper. Here's the usher now. Toodle-oo, glad to have metten you. No, she's seating Percy Hammond.

* * *

I wish I could fill a seat like Percy. When he sits down, the seat is filled and no monkey business. Stand up! A number in an ermine coat. I'm nuts for ermine. She recognizes someone and stops smack in front of me to wave. What a nice shoulder. If she stands there much longer I'm going to snuggle my head on it and coo. She's going on. No trouble at all, lady. I love to stand up at night. I've been sitting all day anyway. You know, writing. Yes, indeed, literary. Shall I autograph your program? I suppose the old billy-goat behind you is the husband. Well, radio him for me they are not wearing white vests with dinner coats this season. And you're not overly peggyhoytish yourself, beautiful.

* * *

Between acts I'll sit here like a ninny for everybody to walk over. I always do. Oscar Odd—The Human Rug. Step on him, ladies and gents, at the entr' acte! The orchestra is tuning up. With my luck, if I belonged to an orchestra I'd play the bull fiddle and lug it home every night. Imagine balancing that dog house in a crowded subway.

* * *

My cough seems to annoy that oyster-eyed whatsist with chin spinach. So that's it. If my throat tickles I must keep swallowing like a jackass with the heaves. Well, you coffin-headed soandso, I'll bark when I like. Share this among you—ack, ack.

* * *

Something must be done, too, about the buzzard roosting in back. All of a sudden he takes up seatkicking and is making it hum! Hear! tap, tap, tap. I'd turn around and slap the old woodpecker's face but it might start a panic. Maybe he's a burnt out roue testing his knee jerks. It won't hurt to turn and scowl. Well, I'll be—it's a stunning girl. Lady kick all you please. Wait, I'll get a hammer, good looking, and you can rap my head. Doing anything after the show? They say the Two Bit Cabaret is fun. Here's the usher. On the other side of the house, me eye. My coupon calls for the last row in the balcony. Alpine Ned on The Rialto. O, well, I'll yodel on my way up.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

And now the end was near. The Passover was finished. His apostles had slipped away and night was shutting down. There could only be a few short hours.

Just a little, terrible time before the end.

But perhaps in that time—

It might not yet be too late. If God would listen—

If God would only understand!

He did not want to die. He was too young. His work had hardly yet begun—His work, that was to sweep the world like a great flame, cleaning the world of lies and cruelty.

But if He died— If now He let Himself be crucified—

It could not be! God, surely, would not let them do this thing—not let them wreck a work so fine and true—

If He asked God for help, not for Himself, for He was willing to endure all pain, but for His work—that precious, holy work on which His heart was set—

If He asked God to let Him live and serve?

And so, as was His wont, He sought a place to pray. And taking Peter, and old Zebedee's two sons, He went into the garden of Gethsemane, and said, "Stay here and wait;" then went away, apart.

(As you and I, in our dark hours, have gone to battle with our agony—alone.)

How dark it was beneath the olive trees! How hard the rocks beneath His stumbling feet! There were no stars; no friendly, homely sounds. Only a little wind moved, restless, whimpering.

Poor, young, thin hands outflung into the night!

Poor eyes, that strained through darkness for a light!

Poor, breaking heart, that now was just a man's—a young man, desperate, pleading for His life!

Down on His face He fell and cried to God:

"If it be possible let this cup pass!"

Silence. He waited. But no answer came. Only the darkness, brooding, like a swing. Only the restless whimpering of the wind.

That sudden noise below? Had they already come?

Hands clenched, His body breaking in a bloody sweat, again He sobbed:

"Father, if this cup may not pass—except I drink it—"

Then a pause.

What did He see in that last glimpse of hope? His own spoiled plan? No, something greater.

Through His blood and tears He saw a vision of a greater plan—of a vast will that reached beyond His own—that made all things come right in God's good time.

His sobbing ceased. His wringing hands grew still. He rose, stood steady, felt a tide of peace and cried:

"THY WILL BE DONE."

And so went calmly down to Calvary.

* * *

For each heart waits, some time, Gethsemane.

To each life comes that darkest, desperate hour when it must battle for the thing it loves—Fight God, Himself, for that which it holds dear.

And, for a while, we only see our own spoiled plan, and sob and bleed and batter on the night.

Then presently, if we are patient, there will come an answer.

Not that soft, easy answer which we asked; not God's consent to let us have our way; but a brief glimpse of something larger than "our way"—of something better than our little, treasured plan.

If we are patient, and if we are strong enough to cry "Thy will be done" that glimpse will come.

And after that, whatever life may cost, it will be worth the price.

For those who "lose their life shall have it."

Those who walk with God, though they die for it—they shall glimpse His Glory. They shall share His Might.

Brandeis' Solemn Warning

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

The other day insurgents among the miners in the anthracite region in Pennsylvania broke away from their union leaders and went on a strike. It has ugly aspects. In all such controversies we hear that the "Communists" are responsible solely; and while the Communists will always take full advantage of every opportunity, we are not prepared to ascribe all dissatisfaction today to "Communism."

In Ohio the miners' strike has entered upon the violence stage, with the strikers stoning officers and the Governor calling out the troops. In Congress we have been hearing some very bitter attacks upon the very rich. And in the Supreme Court Justice Brandeis startles the cathedral quiet of the famous little room where Webster once thundered with a solemn warning that the crisis of today is infinitely more serious than war and that the safety of the state and of society summon us to new experiments in social and economic adjustment. Unpleasant as this all is, it is infinitely better than having high functionaries of the state tossing optimistic assurances of returning prosperity among the millions who are jobless and hungry.

* * *

More Serious Than War

Of course this crisis is more serious than war.

There is something inspirational in the music of drums and of marching men carrying flags. It carries an emotional appeal. Since war is waged against a foreign foe it is easy to draw all our own people together in opposition to a common foe. Men gladly sacrifice, reduce on their food, sacrifice for the state. And while some may doubt the wisdom of a war, the sentiment is so strong and running so high that these keep silent. Even the sacrifice of human life has its compensations.

For fame is there to tell who bleeds
And honor's eye on daring deeds.

There is nothing inspirational in the crisis of unemployment and hunger. The victims of the battle field are heroes; everyone feels a wave of emotion when they fall. But the victims of an economic, industrial, financial collapse—there is no applause for them, and, we are afraid, too little sympathy. We see families being set out upon the street without interest. We turn indifferently away from the jobless man who asks for money on the street. We prefer to hear nothing of the neighbor whose children are not getting enough to eat.

* * *

"The Greatest Country In the World"

The difference between war and such a crisis as this of today, in its effect on the State and on the established order, is that in war we are all united for the State and the established order, while in this crisis millions are embittered against the State and established order. It is the difference between a foreign war and civil war; the latter is far more dreadful than the former.

Here goes a man with a family who has worked industriously all his life without getting enough of what he produces to save much money, and is now denied the inalienable right to work—for bread. It is not an easy thing to assure him that this is "the greatest country in the world," that we have the most perfect social, industrial, financial system on the earth, that we must all band together under the flag to maintain the status quo.

His answer is this: "Give me work."

And that is where the too optimistic find themselves—in a blind alley.

* * *

A Terrible Indictment

Justice Bandeis is said to have spoken with some emotion from the bench in commenting on existing conditions. No doubt some of his associates were shocked. It is not pleasing to hear that our system, governmental and otherwise, is not justifying itself to millions of jobless men and tens of millions of women worrying because their children are not getting proper nourishment. It is shocking to some to be told that "existing conditions threaten even the stability of our capitalistic system"—to quote Brandeis.

But all this is true; they touch on elemental defects in our governmental, social, industrial, financial systems, and these defects are in a large measure responsible for the devastation we see about us.

Behind it all, explaining it all, is greed, the worship of money, the idea we have been trained to—that the one mission of worthwhile men is to pile up money, no matter how ruthless the method.

Machinery has enormously increased production, and while it is an insult to empty stomachs and underclothed bodies to say that our trouble is overproduction, that is what we hear. The trouble is under-consumption.

No society can indefinitely maintain itself against the fact Brandeis sets forth. "Misery is widespread in a time not of scarcity but of over-abundance." That is a terrible sentence, a terrible indictment.

* * *

The Problem That Must Be Solved

And that is the big thing, the great problem that must be solved through drastic reforms in government, industry and finance.

But no one is paying any attention to them.

We have had White House conferences on ways and means to help the distressed in Europe. And White House conferences on ways to serve the railroads, and White House conferences on methods to serve the banks.

But the request, much more than a year old, that a White House conference of industrialists, financiers, workers, economists to work out the reforms indicated by Justice Brandeis as necessary be called, is shunted aside.

And the reason? The foolish idea that cheap temporary patches on the leaky roof will save us from a deluge, the evident inability of our leaders to understand that this is no ordinary panic, such as we have had before.

* * *

Can't Do That Forever

And the bitterness which is growing among the millions of the masses who are denied their inalienable right to work, is due to the feeling that government is concerning itself solely with the problem of helping the rich and powerful. Two billion dollars have been set aside from the Treasury to make loans to railroads and great industries—and railroads borrow the money from the people's treasury to pay the banks on loans.

We have the case of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and J. P. Morgan & Co. The great banking house will not lose because money from the nation's Treasury will prevent its loss; and whether the railroads will be able to pay back the money of the people, is with tomorrow.

But every suggestion of help for the people who are jobless or hungry is "unsound" or a "dole." Of course it is not the customary thing; but when before was it a customary thing to loan money from the Treasury to Big Business? We break with traditional methods for money, and appeal to tradition when it comes to men. We can't do that forever.

* * *

Brandeis Sees It

There ought to be some federal action for the jobless.

There should have been some federal consideration for the hungry.

There must be some governmental initiative on the industrial and financial readjustments necessary for the preservation of our system.

America's function was set forth by Jefferson in the Declaration:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; . . ."

It is because we are not thinking much about men today that so many bitter things are being said against money. Brandeis sees it.
